Psychiatric Rehabilitation Association Certified Psychiatric Rehabilitation Practitioner Sample Questions (Q82-Q87):

NEW QUESTION # 82

One of the BEST ways to reduce stigma is through

- A. research of oppressed populations.
- B. public awareness demonstrations.
- C. interaction with diverse individuals.
- D. sensitivity training workshops.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Reducing stigma toward individuals with psychiatric disabilities requires strategies that challenge stereotypes and foster understanding. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain VI: Systems Competencies) highlights promoting direct interaction with individuals with lived experience as a key method to reduce stigma, as it humanizes mental health conditions and counters misconceptions (Task VI.A.3: "Advocate for stigma reduction through community engagement"). Option C (interaction with diverse individuals) aligns with this, as personal contact-such as through peer-led programs, community events, or storytelling-has been shown to effectively decrease prejudice and promote empathy among the public.

Option A (sensitivity training workshops) is useful but less impactful than direct interaction, which provides lived experience. Option B (public awareness demonstrations) raises visibility but may not foster deep understanding like personal contact. Option D (research of oppressed populations) informs policy but does not directly engage communities to reduce stigma. The PRA Study Guide, referencing contact-based stigma reduction strategies, supports Option C as a best practice.

NEW QUESTION # 83

Which of the following is an indicator of higher levels of recovery for individuals?

- A. Education levels
- B. Socioeconomic status
- C. Cultural background
- D. Meaningful experiences

Answer: D

Explanation:

Recovery in psychiatric rehabilitation is defined by personal growth, fulfillment, and engagement in valued roles, not just symptom reduction. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain V: Strategies for Facilitating Recovery) identifies meaningful experiences-such as achieving personal goals, forming relationships, or participating in community activities-as key indicators of higher recovery levels (Task V.A.1: "Promote recovery principles, including self-determination and satisfaction"). Option C (meaningful experiences) aligns with this, as recovery is reflected in experiences that foster purpose, hope, and connection, which are central to recovery-oriented outcomes.

Option A (education levels) may support recovery but is not a direct indicator. Option B (cultural background) influences experiences but is not an outcome measure. Option D (socioeconomic status) is a contextual factor, not a recovery indicator. The PRA Study Guide emphasizes meaningful experiences as a hallmark of recovery, supporting Option C.

NEW QUESTION # 84

A practitioner working in a residential program often has to intervene in conflicts among housemates living in the facility. Which of the following strategies would the practitioner use?

- A. Prescribe a time-out for the individuals in conflict.
- B. Help housemates distinguish the individuals from the problem.
- C. Recommend the housemates contact their case managers to report the conflict.
- D. Schedule a time for each individual to discuss the problem privately.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Conflict resolution is an essential interpersonal competency for practitioners in psychiatric rehabilitation, particularly in settings like residential programs where interpersonal dynamics are common. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies) emphasizes using collaborative, person-centered strategies to manage conflicts (Task I.B.2: "Facilitate conflict resolution using recovery-oriented approaches"). Option D (help housemates distinguish the individuals from the problem) aligns with this task by employing a recovery-oriented technique, such as narrative or solution-focused approaches, that externalizes the problem (e.g., "the conflict is the issue, not the people"). This fosters collaboration and reduces personal blame, promoting constructive dialogue.

Option A (prescribe a time-out) is authoritarian and not recovery-oriented, as it does not empower individuals to resolve the conflict. Option B (recommend contacting case managers) deflects responsibility and does not address the conflict directly, missing an opportunity for skill-building. Option C (discuss the problem privately) may be part of a process but is less effective than Option D, as it does not directly facilitate group resolution or teach conflict management skills. The PRA Study Guide highlights externalizing problems as a best practice in conflict resolution, supporting Option D.

NEW QUESTION # 85

An individual with schizophrenia is struggling with her college course due to secondary cognitive deficits. The practitioner's first course of action would be to

- A. explore with the individual the pros and cons of dropping the course.
- B. assist the individual in developing compensatory strategies.
- C. offer to attend the class with the individual.
- D. inform the instructor of the individual's special needs.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Cognitive deficits, such as difficulties with memory or attention, are common in schizophrenia and can hinder academic performance. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain V: Strategies for Facilitating Recovery) emphasizes developing compensatory strategies to support individuals in achieving educational goals despite functional challenges (Task V.B.4: "Teach skills using evidence-based methods"). Option C (assist the individual in developing compensatory strategies) aligns with this, as strategies like using planners, breaking tasks into smaller steps, or employing mnemonic devices can help the individual manage cognitive deficits and succeed in her college course, aligning with her goal to continue education.

Option A (attend class) is intrusive and not a sustainable support strategy. Option B (inform the instructor) may violate confidentiality and is not the first step without the individual's consent or input. Option D (explore dropping the course) assumes disengagement rather than supporting her educational goal. The PRA Study Guide highlights compensatory strategies as a primary intervention for cognitive challenges, supporting Option C.

NEW QUESTION # 86

Which of the following techniques is most useful when assessing rehabilitation readiness of an individual?

- A. Summarizing techniques
- B. Active listening
- C. Interpersonal dialogue
- D. Internal reflection

Answer: B

Explanation:

Assessing rehabilitation readiness requires understanding an individual's motivation and barriers, which is best achieved through empathetic engagement. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain IV: Assessment, Planning, and Outcomes) emphasizes active listening as a core technique to elicit the individual's desires, concerns, and readiness for change (Task IV.A.2: "Assess individual's stage of change and readiness for goal-setting"). Option B (active listening) aligns with this, as it involves fully attending to the individual, reflecting their statements, and clarifying their intentions, enabling accurate assessment of their commitment and stage of change. Option A (summarizing techniques) supports understanding but is secondary to listening. Option C (internal reflection) is practitioner-focused, not assessment-focused. Option D (interpersonal dialogue) is broad and less specific than active listening. The PRA Study Guide underscores active listening as essential for readiness assessment, supporting Option B.
