Salesforce Certified Tableau Architect Sample Questions (Q172-Q177):

NEW QUESTION # 172
During the installation of Tableau Server on Linux, which action is crucial to ensure proper system group and file system permissions are set?

- A. Configuring all users on the Linux system to have administrative privileges for the duration of the Tableau Server installation
- B. Disabling the Linux system's firewall to prevent it from interfering with file permissions
- C. Assigning the Tableau Server user to the root group to ensure full system access
- D. Creating a dedicated Tableau user and group, and setting appropriate ownership and per-missions on the Tableau directories

Answer: D

Explanation:
Creating a dedicated Tableau user and group, and setting appropriate ownership and permissions on the Tableau directories For a successful Tableau Server installation on Linux, it's crucial to create a dedicated Tableau user and group. Setting appropriate ownership and permissions on the Tableau directories ensures that Tableau Server has the necessary access rights to operate correctly while maintaining the security and integrity of the system. Option A is incorrect because as-signing the Tableau Server user to the root group poses significant security risks and is not recommended. Option C is incorrect as giving all users administrative privileges is unnecessary for Tableau Server installation and could compromise system security. Option D is incorrect because disabling the firewall does not affect file system permissions and is not a recommended practice during installation.

NEW QUESTION # 173
In troubleshooting Azure Active Directory authentication issues with Tableau Server, what is a key aspect to check first?

- A. The firewall settings on the Tableau Server blocking Azure AD traffic
- B. The validity of the OAuth tokens used for authentication between Tableau Server and Azure AD
- C. The version of the Azure AD module installed on Tableau Server
- D. The network bandwidth and speed between Tableau Server and Azure AD services

Answer: B

Explanation:
The validity of the OAuth tokens used for authentication between Tableau Server and Azure AD When troubleshooting Azure AD authentication issues with Tableau Server, one of the first aspects to check is the validity of the OAuth tokens. These tokens are essential for the authentication process, and issues such as token expiration or invalidation can prevent successful authentication. Option A is incorrect because network bandwidth and speed, while important, are typically not the primary cause of authentication issues. Option C is incorrect as firewall settings, although they can block traffic, are less likely to be the specific cause of Azure AD authentication problems. Option D is incorrect because the version of the Azure AD module, while important, is not usually the first aspect to be checked in troubleshooting scenarios.

NEW QUESTION # 174
In validating a disaster recovery plan for Tableau Server, what aspect is critical to assess to ensure minimal downtime in case of a system failure?

- A. The compatibility of the backup data with different versions of Tableau Server
- B. The total size of data backups
- C. The efficiency and speed of the backup restoration process
- D. The physical distance between the primary and backup servers

Answer: C

Explanation:
The efficiency and speed of the backup restoration process The efficiency and speed of the backup restoration process are key factors in ensuring minimal downtime during a dis-aster recovery scenario. Quick and efficient restoration means that the Tableau Server can be brought back online promptly, reducing the impact on business operations. Option A is incorrect as the total size of data backups, while impacting storage requirements, does not directly determine the downtime during a recovery. Option B is incorrect because while compatibility is important, it does not directly impact the speed of recovery in a disaster situation. Option D is incorrect as the physical distance between servers can affect certain aspects of disaster recovery planning, but it is not the primary factor in ensuring minimal downtime.

NEW QUESTION # 175

A large enterprise with a global presence is looking to enhance its Tableau Server deployment to support advanced analytics and machine learning capabilities. Which Tableau Server Add-On should be recommended to meet this requirement?

- A. Tableau Catalog for improved data management and governance
- B. Tableau Data Management Add-On to enhance data preparation and cataloging
- C. Tableau Server Management Add-On to leverage advanced analytics and machine learning capabilities
- D. Tableau Bridge to provide better connectivity with external data sources

Answer: C

Explanation:
Tableau Server Management Add-On to leverage advanced analytics and ma-chine learning capabilities This add-on provides enhanced capabilities for managing the Tableau Server environment, including features that support advanced analytics and machine learning, which are essential for a large enterprise looking to leverage these technologies. Option A is incorrect be-cause Tableau Bridge primarily focuses on live data connection and not on advanced analytics or machine learning. Option B is incorrect as Tableau Catalog is more about data visibility and lineage, not directly related to advanced analytics and machine learning. Option C is incorrect because while it improves data preparation and cataloging, it does not directly address advanced analytics and machine learning requirements.

NEW QUESTION # 176

When troubleshooting Connected App authentication issues in Tableau Server, what factor should be primarily investigated?

- A. The frequency of data synchronization between the connected app and Tableau Server
- B. The speed and stability of the internet connection between the connected app and Tableau Server
- C. The correctness and validity of the client credentials used by the connected app
- D. The version compatibility of Tableau Server with the connected app

Answer: C

Explanation:
The correctness and validity of the client credentials used by the connected app A common area to focus on when troubleshooting Connected App authentication issues is the correctness and validity of the client credentials (client ID and secret). Incorrect or expired credentials can prevent the connected app from authenticating with Tableau Server, leading to access issues. Ensuring that these credentials are correct and up-to-date is crucial for resolving authentication problems. Option A is incorrect because while internet connectivity is important, it is not typically the primary cause of authentication issues. Option C is incorrect as version compatibility, although important, is less likely to be the direct cause of authentication problems. Option D is incorrect be-cause the frequency of data synchronization is generally not related to authentication issues with connected apps.
