NEW QUESTION # 85

An example of a core indicator used for reporting state performance of secondary students to Congress is

- A. percentage of students considered at risk
- B. percentage of campus parental involvement
- C. student graduation rate
- D. median family income

Answer: C

Explanation:

Student graduation rate is a core indicator used to report state performance of secondary students to Congress, particularly under federal education laws like the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and Perkins Act, reflecting educational outcomes. Option A (median family income) is a demographic factor, not a performance indicator. Option C (at-risk students) and Option D (parental involvement) are relevant but not core indicators for federal reporting. This question aligns with the Professional Business Education category, emphasizing educational metrics.

NEW QUESTION # 86

The primary purpose of the income statement of a business is to provide

- A. the financial progress of the business for a specific period of time
- B. the financial projections for the business for a specific period of time
- C. the debt-to-equity ratio of the business on a specific date
- D. a listing of accounts receivable and accounts payable on a specific date

Answer: A

Explanation:

The income statement, also known as the profit and loss statement, summarizes a company's revenues, expenses, and profits or losses over a specific period of time. Its primary purpose is to show the financial progress of the business, indicating whether it has made a profit or incurred a loss during that period. Option A (debt-to-equity ratio) is incorrect because this ratio is derived from the balance sheet, not the income statement. Option B (financial projections) refers to forecasts or budgets, not historical performance, which is the focus of the income statement. Option D (accounts receivable and payable) is also related to the balance sheet, not the income statement. The correct answer, C, aligns with the Praxis 5101 content category of Accounting and Finance, which includes understanding financial statements.

NEW QUESTION # 87

Which of the following types of interviews should be conducted to ensure that assessments by key people are included in the hiring process?

- A. Structured interviews
- B. Sequential interviews
- C. Behavioral interviews
- D. Stress interviews

Answer: B

Explanation:

Sequential interviews involve multiple interviewers, often key stakeholders, assessing a candidate in separate sessions, ensuring diverse perspectives in the hiring process. Option A (behavioral interviews) focuses on past behavior but does not inherently include multiple assessors. Option B (stress interviews) tests candidate resilience, not broad assessment. Option D (structured interviews) uses standardized questions but does not guarantee multiple evaluators. This question aligns with the Communication and Career

Development category, focusing on hiring practices.

Which of the following actions is most likely to be considered a breach of social responsibility by a company?

- A. Increasing employee productivity by reducing the number of employee hours used for each unit of production
- B. Circumventing a zoning board decision that prohibits development of an environmentally sensitive area
- C. Underbidding competitors for a government contract
- D. Attempting to maximize profits by reducing overhead

Answer: B

Explanation:

Social responsibility involves ethical actions that consider societal and environmental impacts. Circumventing a zoning board decision to develop an environmentally sensitive area violates social responsibility by prioritizing profit over environmental protection. Options A and B (reducing overhead, increasing productivity) are standard business practices, not inherently unethical. Option C (underbidding) is competitive, not necessarily irresponsible. This question aligns with the Business Law category, emphasizing corporate ethics.

Business Professionals of America (BPA) focuses on business-related fields, including accounting, offering competitions and activities tailored to finance and accounting careers.
