Psychiatric Rehabilitation Association Certified Psychiatric Rehabilitation Practitioner Sample Questions (Q103-Q108):

NEW QUESTION # 103

An individual describes sadness due to the death of a loved one. The best first response to the individual is:

- A. "What are the good things about the relationship you could focus on?"
- B. "This is an opportunity for you to build your coping skills."
- C. "Do you need to talk to your doctor about a medication adjustment?"
- D. "You feel distraught because you lost someone important to you."

Answer: D

Explanation:

This question falls under Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies, which emphasizes building therapeutic relationships, effective communication, and person-centered approaches to support recovery. The CPRP Exam Blueprint specifies that Interpersonal Competencies include "demonstrating empathy, active listening, and responding to individuals in a manner that validates their feelings and experiences." The best first response to an individual expressing sadness due to a loved one's death should demonstrate empathy and validate their emotions, aligning with the principles of psychiatric rehabilitation, which prioritize person-centered, recovery-oriented communication.

* Option B: "You feel distraught because you lost someone important to you" is a reflective listening statement that acknowledges and validates the individual's emotional experience. It shows empathy by restating their feelings and the cause (loss of a loved one), fostering a therapeutic connection. This aligns with the PRA's emphasis on active listening and empathy as core interpersonal skills in psychiatric rehabilitation.

* Option A: Suggesting a medication adjustment assumes a medical need without exploring the individual's emotional state, which is premature and not person-centered. It does not address the expressed sadness or demonstrate empathy.

* Option C: Focusing on positive aspects of the relationship shifts attention away from the individual's current emotional experience, potentially invalidating their grief. This response lacks empathy and does not align with active listening principles.

* Option D: Framing the loss as an opportunity for coping skills development is directive and dismissive of the individual's immediate emotional needs. It fails to validate their feelings, which is critical in the initial response.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain I: Interpersonal Competencies):

"Tasks include: 1. Establishing and maintaining a therapeutic relationship with individuals. 2. Demonstrating empathy and active listening skills. 3. Using person-centered communication to validate individuals' experiences and promote recovery."

NEW QUESTION # 104

An individual with a psychiatric disability tells her job coach that she has been written up for the third time for being late and is worried about losing her job. She is struggling to wake up on time due to medication side effects. The best course of action for the job coach is to:

- A. Schedule transportation so she can be on time.
- B. Discuss the option of requesting accommodations with her.
- C. Refer her to a work adjustment program to practice being on time.
- D. Help her explore alternative employment options.

Answer: B

Explanation:

This question aligns with Domain III: Community Integration, which focuses on supporting individuals to maintain employment through strategies like workplace accommodations. The CPRP Exam Blueprint emphasizes "assisting individuals to request reasonable accommodations to address disability-related barriers, such as medication side effects, to sustain community employment." The individual's lateness is due to medication side effects, and accommodations can address this barrier while preserving her job.

* Option D: Discussing the option of requesting accommodations (e.g., a later start time or flexible schedule) is the best course of action, as it directly addresses the medication side effects causing lateness. This approach, supported by laws like the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), empowers the individual to maintain her job while managing her disability, aligning with recovery-oriented employment support.

* Option A: Exploring alternative employment is premature and unnecessary, as accommodations may resolve the issue without requiring a job change, which could disrupt stability.

* Option B: A work adjustment program focuses on general work skills, not specific barriers like medication side effects, and may not address the immediate risk of job loss.

* Option C: Scheduling transportation does not address the root cause (difficulty waking up due to medication), making it an ineffective solution.

Extract from CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration):

"Tasks include: 2. Supporting individuals in maintaining employment through strategies like reasonable accommodations to address disability-related barriers. 3. Promoting self-advocacy in workplace settings."

NEW QUESTION # 105

An individual was recently discharged from an inpatient facility where he was treated for schizophrenia.

During a meeting with a practitioner, he shared previous struggles with landlords and neighbors and how that left him feeling unsafe and very angry. What would be the BEST option to offer him?

- A. Help him make a decision about where he wants to live.
- B. Refer him to an anger management group where attitudes can be discussed.
- C. Refer him to a residential program where similar issues have been addressed.
- D. Help him find a supported housing apartment with a roommate.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Supporting an individual recently discharged from inpatient care involves addressing barriers to community integration, such as past housing conflicts, while prioritizing self-determination. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain III: Community Integration) emphasizes empowering individuals to make choices about their living arrangements to foster stability and safety (Task III.A.1: "Support individuals in accessing and maintaining stable housing"). Option D (help him make a decision about where he wants to live) aligns with this by focusing on person-centered planning, allowing the individual to explore housing options that address his feelings of unsafety and anger, such as locations or settings that feel secure and supportive.

Option A (anger management group) addresses anger but not the root issue of housing-related distress or safety concerns. Option B (residential program) assumes a specific solution without involving the individual's preferences, which may not align with his recovery goals. Option C (supported housing with a roommate) is prescriptive and may not suit his needs, especially given past conflicts with others, without first exploring his preferences. The PRA Study Guide underscores the importance of choice in housing to promote community integration, supporting Option D.

NEW QUESTION # 106

Literature suggests that bolstering the social support network of people who have been diagnosed with schizophrenia can MOST importantly improve their

- A. ability to work.
- B. social skills.
- C. sense of well-being.
- D. symptomatology.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Social support networks are critical for enhancing wellness among individuals with schizophrenia, as they provide emotional, practical, and social resources that foster recovery. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain VII: Supporting Health & Wellness) emphasizes the role of social connections in promoting overall well-being (Task VII.B.1: "Support the development of social and interpersonal skills to enhance wellness").

Option C (sense of well-being) aligns with this, as literature consistently shows that strong social support networks improve emotional and psychological well-being by reducing isolation, enhancing self-esteem, and providing a sense of belonging, which are particularly vital for individuals with schizophrenia.

Option A (social skills) may improve indirectly through social engagement, but it is not the primary outcome, as skills are a means to well-being, not the end goal. Option B (ability to work) is a secondary benefit, as employment depends on multiple factors beyond social support (Domain III). Option D (symptomatology) may see some improvement, but well-being is a broader, more direct outcome of social support, as symptom reduction is not guaranteed by social networks alone. The PRA Study Guide, referencing recovery-oriented research, highlights social support as a key driver of well-being, supporting Option C.

NEW QUESTION # 107

A readiness assessment includes exploration of a person's

- A. hopes and dreams.
- B. natural support system.
- C. commitment to change.
- D. skills and resources.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Rehabilitation readiness assessment evaluates an individual's preparedness to engage in goal-setting and recovery activities, focusing on their motivation and mindset. The CPRP Exam Blueprint (Domain IV:

Assessment, Planning, and Outcomes) specifies that readiness assessment includes exploring the individual's commitment to change, as this reflects their willingness and motivation to pursue goals (Task IV.A.2: "Assess individual's stage of change and readiness for goal-setting"). Option B (commitment to change) aligns with this, as it involves assessing factors like hope, confidence, and alignment with the Stages of Change model (e.

g., contemplation or preparation stages) to determine readiness for rehabilitation.

Option A (natural support system) is part of resource assessment, not readiness. Option C (skills and resources) relates to functional and resource assessments. Option D (hopes and dreams) informs goal-setting but is broader than the specific focus on commitment to change. The PRA Study Guide highlights commitment as central to readiness assessment, supporting Option B.
