CIPS Operations Management Sample Questions (Q13-Q18):

NEW QUESTION # 13

Penny is the Operations Manager at a small furniture manufacturing company that makes tables and chairs, among other wooden household items. In the manufacturing site there is a small warehouse which stores inventory which is used in unforeseen circumstances such as a late delivery. What is the name given to this type of inventory?

- A. work-in progress
- B. anticipation inventory
- C. buffer stock
- D. transit inventory

Answer: C

Explanation:

This is buffer stock because it is being used as a safety for if something goes wrong with the current planned production schedule.. Anticipation Inventory is when you order extra materials in anticipation that something in the future will affect the level of production, such as a labour strike or a sharp price increase. These two are quite similar but the difference is buffer stock is held all the time and you don't anticipate something drastic is going to change in the future- you're just holding the extra stock because you're risk adverse. Anticipation Inventory isn't always held, it's collected when you think something bad is going to happen in the future and you'll need it. Work-in-progress is half-finished products and transit inventory is products that are currently being moved, for example on a delivery truck so these two are obvious wrong answers. See p.25 for different types of inventory

NEW QUESTION # 15

Little Joy Ltd is a large company with several functional departments. Below are details of four departments. For each, you must decide which functional area of the business the department is, as well as the SERVQUAL Gap that each Department Lead is concerned with.

Department 1: This department is concerned with the creation of products. The products are created in line with BS EN 716-1 and undergo vigorous tests before they leave the factory. Many customers are unaware of the additional costs of testing to BS EN 716-1 and complain about the price of this product line.

Department 2: Other departments of the business are internal customers of this functional area and approach the Department Lead when they require something to be bought. Often the internal customers have unrealistic expectations of the timescales involved in the process and the Department Lead spends a lot of time explaining lead times and logistics.

Department 3: This functional area creates the budgets for the company and emails these to the Department Leads at the beginning of every quarter. Due to the complexity of the documents, other functional areas of the business often don't understand the information provided.

Department 4: This area of the business is concerned with revenue, which has recently slumped. The Department Lead is conducting market surveys to find out the reason for this.
