NEW QUESTION # 49

How are version related upgrades passed on to subscriber API extensions/overrides?

- A. Extensions and overridden APIs don't support-related upgrades.
- B. APIs callback with specific versions specified; the user must know which version number to use.
- C. Copy and paste of specific code is "built-in"
- D. The "delegate" allows inherited method calls access to the most recently specified service version

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 50

Which technique is used by Lightning Web Components to provide areas of swappable, customizable content?

- A. CSS classes
- B. JQuery templates

- C. <slot> elements
- D. MutationObservers

Answer: C

Explanation:

Lightning Web Components (LWC) use <slot> elements to define areas within the component's template where content can be inserted dynamically. This feature, part of the Web Components standard, allows for the creation of customizable and reusable components. Salesforce developer documentation on LWC outlines the use of slots to build flexible component interfaces, enabling developers to design components that can adapt to various content structures and layouts.

NEW QUESTION # 51

Which three components should a developer use on the product page to replace the out-of-the-box Product Detail Card component?

- A. Product Field Long component
- B. Product Detail Breadcrumbs component
- C. Product Detail Image Gallery component
- D. Product Fields Short component
- E. Product Detail Purchase Options component

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 52

Which two statements are true regarding the cc_CallContext class in Salesforce B2B Commerce? (2 answers)

- A. The current storefront is accessible via this class
- B. The userLocale variable returns the current Locale for storefront.
- C. The Salesforce session is accessible via the getSession method
- D. The class can be used internally within Salesforce B2B Commerce and in subscriber code to access context level parameters

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

The cc_CallContext class is a utility class that provides access to various context level parameters, such as the current storefront, user, cart, price list, currency, locale, and session. The class can be used internally within Salesforce B2B Commerce and in subscriber code to access these parameters. The current storefront is accessible via this class by using the getStorefront method, which returns a cc_Storefront__c object. The userLocale variable returns the current Locale for storefront, but it is not part of the cc_CallContext class. It is a global variable that can be accessed from any Visualforce page or component by using {!userLocale}. The Salesforce session is accessible via the getSession method, but it is not part of the cc_CallContext class either. It is a method of the cc_SessionUtil class, which is another utility class that provides methods for managing sessions. NEW QUESTION # 53

How are variables bound when services use the ccServiceDao class to execute queries?

- A. String substitution
- B. Global variables
- C. Apex class variables
- D. Apex local variables

Answer: A

Explanation:

When services use the ccServiceDao class to execute queries, variables are bound by string substitution. This means that the query string contains placeholders for variables that are replaced by their values at runtime. For example, ccrz.ccServiceDao.getQuery('SELECT Id FROM Account WHERE Name = :name') will replace :name with the value of thenameariale.
