In the cloud-network integration scenario of the CloudFabric Solution, which of the following devices or platforms need to be interconnected with the SDN controller iMaster NCE-Fabric?

- A. Firewall
- B. Cloud platform
- C. VMM
- D. Physical switch

Answer: B,C,D

Explanation:

In Huawei CloudFabric's cloud-network integration scenario , the SDN controller iMaster NCE-Fabric must interconnect with multiple key components to enable end-to-end automation and orchestration .

Cloud platform (A): Platforms such as OpenStack or ManageOne integrate with iMaster NCE-Fabric via northbound APIs. This allows automatic network provisioning when tenants create networks, VMs, or services.

VMM (C - Virtual Machine Manager): Integration with virtualization platforms (e.g., VMware vCenter, FusionSphere) enables dynamic VM-aware networking, including automatic port and policy configuration.

Physical switch (D): These are the core devices controlled by iMaster NCE-Fabric. The controller pushes configurations (VXLAN, EVPN, routing) to build the underlay and overlay fabric.

Firewall (B) is typically integrated as a service device (VAS) but is not directly required to interconnect with the controller in all scenarios. It is usually inserted via service chaining rather than direct control-plane integration.

Huawei emphasizes controller-based automation , where iMaster NCE-Fabric coordinates between cloud platforms, virtualization systems, and physical network devices.
