NEW QUESTION # 173
Company J produces two components: A-1 and A-2. The unit throughput contribution margins for A-1 and A-2 are US $150 and US $300, respectively. Each component must proceed through two processes: Operation 1 and Operation 2. The capacity of Operation 1 is 180 machine hours, with A-1 and A-2 requiring 1 hour and 3 hours, respectively.
Furthermore, Company J can sell only 45 units of A-1 and 100 units of A-2. However,
Company J is considering expanding Operation 1's capacity by 90 machine hours at a cost of US $80 per hour. Assuming that Operation 2 has sufficient capacity to handle any additional output from Operation 1, how much should Company J produce?

- A. Option A
- B. Option C
- C. Option D
- D. Option C

Answer: D

Explanation:
A-1's throughput contribution margin per unit of the scarce resource the internal binding constraint) is US $150 $150 UCM - 1 machining hour). A-2's throughput contribution margin per unit of the scarce resource is U $100 $300 UCM - 3 machine hours). Consequently, Company J should produce as much A-1 as it can sell 45 units). If Company adds 90 machine hours to increase the capacity of Operation -I to 270 hours 180 + 90), it cannot produce additional units of A-1 because the external binding constraint has not been relaxed. However, it can produce additional units of A-2. Given that the UCM per machine hour of A-2 is U $100 and that the cost is US $80 per hour, adding capacity to Operation 1 is profitable. Thus, Company J should use 45 machine hours to produce 45 units of A-1. The remaining 225 machine hours 270 - 45) should be used to produce 75 units 225 - 3 hours) of A-2. The latter amount is within the external binding constraint. A company produces two products, and Y, which use material and labor as inputs.
