CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 2 Sample Questions (Q103-Q108):

NEW QUESTION # 103

After a local company office was destroyed by a hurricane, the company files an insurance claim for equipment replacement. The company maintained current, off-site backups. Which of the following is the most important information to provide to the insurance company?

- A. Inventory list
- B. Topology diagram
- C. Software licensing
- D. Warranty information

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 104

A user wants to connect a retro gaming console to the internet so that they can participate in online gaming. In order for the console to work, the Wi-Fi connection must adhere to a WPA-protected broadcast. Which of the following is the best option for the user to implement?

- A. Use a wired Ethernet adapter to connect the console
- B. Set the router to WPA and then back to normal after using the console
- C. Connect an older wireless router to the existing network
- D. Create a lower-security network exclusively for the console

Answer: D

Explanation:

The best option is to create a lower-security network exclusively for the console. Many retro or legacy gaming consoles only support older Wi-Fi security standards such as WPA or even WEP, and they cannot connect to modern WPA2 or WPA3 networks. Downgrading the entire primary network would significantly weaken overall security, which is not recommended in any environment.

The Quentin Docter - CompTIA A+ Complete Study Guide explains that legacy devices often lack firmware support for modern encryption standards and should be isolated rather than integrated directly into secure networks. Creating a separate SSID with reduced security limits exposure while still allowing connectivity for the unsupported device.

The Travis Everett & Andrew Hutz - All-in-One Exam Guide emphasizes that lowering security settings on a primary router-even temporarily-introduces unnecessary risk. Switching encryption modes back and forth can also cause configuration instability and expose the network during the downgrade window.

The Mike Meyers / Mark Soper Lab Manual further reinforces the concept of network segmentation as a best practice. By creating a dedicated network for legacy or insecure devices, administrators reduce the attack surface and prevent lateral movement to sensitive systems.

Using a wired Ethernet adapter may not be supported by the console, and adding an older router introduces unmanaged vulnerabilities. Therefore, isolating the console on a separate, lower-security wireless network is the safest and most practical solution.

NEW QUESTION # 105

Which of the following is a Linux command that is used for administrative purposes?

- A. net user
- B. runas
- C. su
- D. cmcl

Answer: C

Explanation:

The su (substitute user) command is a standard Linux utility that allows an administrator to assume another user's identity - most commonly switching to the root account for elevated privileges. It's an essential tool for administrative tasks on Unix and Linux systems.

NEW QUESTION # 106

Which of the following malware types typically has very high computing resource usage?

- A. Boot sector virus
- B. Rootkit
- C. Cryptominer
- D. Trojan

Answer: C

Explanation:

Cryptominer malware uses significant computing resources to mine crypto currency, resulting in very high resource usage.

NEW QUESTION # 107

A small office reported a phishing attack that resulted in a malware infection. A technician is investigating the incident and has verified the following:

- All endpoints are updated and have the newest EDR signatures.
- Logs confirm that the malware was quarantined by EDR on one system.
- The potentially infected machine was reimaged.

Which of the following actions should the technician take next?

- A. Install network security tools to prevent downloading infected files from the internet.
- B. Discuss the cause of the issue and educate the end user about security hygiene.
- C. Suggest alternate preventative controls that would include more advanced security software.
- D. Flash the firmware of the router to ensure the integrity of network traffic.

Answer: B

Explanation:

With technical controls updated, EDR signatures current, and the infected system reimaged, the next step is to address the human factor. Educating the user on how to recognize phishing attempts and follow safe practices helps prevent recurrence and strengthens the organization's overall security posture.
