NEW QUESTION # 115

- A. To prevent high-priority packets from being discarded, the early drop threshold of high-priority packets is set to a smaller value.
- B. Tail drop causes global TCP synchronization and reduces bandwidth usage.
- C. The RED technology can reduce the jitter during packet transmission.
- D. Congestion avoidance is a traffic control mechanism that monitors the usage of network resources (such as queues or memory buffers) and discards packets when the system is congested to adjust the traffic and mitigate network overload.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 116

(Single) When deploying home and guest services in a PON system, which of the following services has the highest priority?

- A. IPTV
- B. GAME
- C. INTERNET
- D. VOIP

Answer: D

Explanation:

In access networks, Huawei recommends prioritizing real-time voice (VoIP) traffic with the highest forwarding priority (typically EF, 802.1p 5) to ensure low latency and jitter. IPTV/video is generally next (AF classes), while gaming and general Internet browsing are treated lower than voice. Therefore, VOIP receives the top priority to protect call quality under congestion.

NEW QUESTION # 117

On the U2000 network management, the oLT PON port LED is not green, indicating that the PON port is faulty.

- A. Right
- B. wrong

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 118

(Radio) The device periodically sends and receives LACP packets to avoid information loss. If no LACPDU is received within () LACP interaction cycles, the system considers the member port Down.

- A. 0

- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

Explanation:

In IEEE 802.1AX/802.3ad LACP operation, timeout detection relies on a multiplier of three consecutive LACP intervals. In short-timeout mode, the default period is ~1 s; if 3 intervals pass without receiving LACPDUs, the peer is considered expired and the member is removed (treated as Down for aggregation).

Huawei implements this standard behavior for port-member validity in an Eth-Trunk.
