CompTIA A+ Certification Exam: Core 1 Sample Questions (Q361-Q366):

NEW QUESTION # 361

A technician is building a home desktop computer. The technician wants to prioritize cable management when considering the type of power supply. Which of the following power supply types should the technician consider?

- A. Modular
- B. Redundant
- C. Standard
- D. Back-up

Answer: A

Explanation:

A modular power supply is the best choice when cable management is a priority. According to CompTIA Core 1 (220-1201) power supply objectives, modular PSUs allow technicians to connect only the cables that are needed for the system's components, reducing clutter inside the case.

This improves airflow, simplifies troubleshooting, and creates a cleaner internal layout, which is especially beneficial in home-built desktop systems. Semi-modular and fully modular power supplies offer varying degrees of flexibility, but all modular designs reduce unused cables compared to standard power supplies.

A standard (non-modular) power supply has all cables permanently attached, often resulting in excess unused cables that obstruct airflow. A backup power supply refers to an uninterruptible power supply (UPS), which provides battery backup but does not improve internal cable management. A redundant power supply is typically found in enterprise servers and includes multiple PSUs for fault tolerance, not cable management.

CompTIA emphasizes modular power supplies as a best practice for clean builds and efficient system design, making this the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 362

A user prints a spreadsheet in duplex mode. The spreadsheet is difficult to read because some of the columns spill onto the second side of the page. Which of the following should the user do to prevent the issue but still print on both sides of the page?

- A. Change the page orientation.
- B. Use a different print driver.
- C. Try a smaller font size in the spreadsheet.
- D. Turn off duplex printing.

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 363

A technician is troubleshooting a desktop PC that is plugged into a UPS. The PC loses the system date/time after every power outage.

Which of the following should the technician do to resolve the issue? (Choose two.)

- A. Install a surge protector.
- B. Disable NTP in the OS.
- C. Swap out the RAM.
- D. Replace the CMOS battery
- E. Repair the backup power source.
- F. Run a BIOS update.

Answer: D,E

Explanation:

Repair the backup power source. Ensuring the UPS actually holds power through outages prevents the PC from abruptly losing all power, which contributes to time resets.

Replace the CMOS battery. A fresh CMOS battery maintains the BIOS clock when the system is shut down or loses power.

NEW QUESTION # 364

A user is trying to print diagrams on 11in x 17in (28cm x 43cm) paper. The correct paper is in the printer, but the printer prompts the user to insert paper. A technician assisting the user successfully prints the diagram to a different printer that is the same model. Which of the following is the most likely cause of this issue on the user's printer?

- A. Tray settings
- B. Incorrect driver
- C. Connectivity issues
- D. Insufficient permissions

Answer: A

Explanation:

If the correct paper is physically loaded but the printer still prompts for paper, the most likely cause is that the paper size configured for the tray does not match the print job. Incorrect tray settings prevent the printer from recognizing that the required 11in x 17in paper is available.

NEW QUESTION # 365

An administrator is helping a new employee configure email on a smartphone. The employee also needs access to a shared mailbox. Which is the best email client for this situation?

- A. Corporate
- B. Built-in
- C. Open-source
- D. Employee preferred

Answer: A

Explanation:

A corporate-provided email client is designed to integrate with enterprise services such as shared mailboxes, MDM policies, and enterprise authentication. CompTIA A+ states that corporate clients support additional management features, secure authentication protocols (such as OAuth or Kerberos), and policy-enforced access control essential for accessing shared or departmental mailboxes.

Open-source clients (Option A) may lack compatibility with enterprise environments. Built-in smartphone clients (Option B) often don't support complex mailbox structures such as shared mailboxes. Employee- preferred apps (Option D) are discouraged because they may not meet security requirements.

Corporate clients ensure full compatibility with organizational mail servers, shared folders, calendars, and enterprise security features, making corporate email clients the correct choice according to CompTIA's mobile device email configuration standards.
