EC-COUNCIL EC Council Certified Incident Handler (ECIH v3) Sample Questions (Q121-Q126):

NEW QUESTION # 121

Nervous Nat often sends emails with screenshots of what he thinks are serious incidents, but they always turn out to be false positives. Today, he sends another screenshot, suspecting a nation-state attack. As usual, you go through your list of questions, check your resources for information to determine whether the screenshot shows a real attack, and determine the condition of your network. Which step of IR did you just perform?

- A. Recovery
- B. Remediation
- C. Preparation
- D. Detection and analysis (or identification)

Answer: D

Explanation:

When you receive a screenshot from Nervous Nat and go through a list of questions, check resources for information to determine the nature of the screenshot, and assess the condition of your network, you are engaging in the Detection and Analysis (or Identification) phase of Incident Response (IR). This phase is about identifying potential security incidents based on reported concerns, anomalies detected by security tools, or through the analysis of security alerts. In this scenario, despite the historical context of false positives, each report is treated seriously, requiring you to collect and analyze information to determine whether a real attack is happening. This involves verifying the validity of the incident, assessing its nature, scope, and impact, and deciding on the appropriate next steps. The detection and analysis phase is critical for determining the course of the IR process, including whether escalation is needed and what response measures should be initiated. References: The ECIH v3 certification materials outline the Incident Response process, detailing steps from preparation, detection and analysis, containment, eradication, and recovery, to post-incident activities, highlighting the importance of thorough detection and analysis as the foundation for effective incident management.

NEW QUESTION # 122

Otis is an incident handler working in Delmont organization. Recently, the organization is facing several setbacks in the business and thereby its revenues are going down. Otis was asked to take the charge and look into the matter. While auditing the enterprise security, he found the traces of an attack, where the proprietary information was stolen from the enterprise network and was passed onto the competitors.

Which of the following information security incidents Delmont organization faced?

- A. Espionage
- B. Unauthorized access
- C. Network and resource abuses
- D. Email-based abuse

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Delmont organization faced an espionage incident, which involves the unauthorized access and theft of proprietary or confidential information for passing it onto competitors or other external entities. Espionage is targeted at obtaining secrets or intellectual property to gain a competitive advantage or for other strategic purposes. Unlike network and resource abuses or email-based abuse, which might not specifically target sensitive information, espionage directly aims at stealing valuable data. Unauthorized access is a method that could be used in an espionage attempt but does not fully capture the motive of passing stolen information to competitors.

References: Incident Handler (ECIH v3) courses and study materials discuss various types of information security incidents, including espionage, highlighting its impact on businesses and strategies for detection and prevention.

NEW QUESTION # 123

Insider threats can be detected by observing concerning behaviors exhibited by insiders, such as conflicts with supervisors and coworkers, decline in performance, tardiness or unexplained absenteeism. Select the technique that helps in detecting insider threats:

- A. Protecting computer systems by implementing proper controls
- B. Categorizing information according to its sensitivity and access rights
- C. Correlating known patterns of suspicious and malicious behavior
- D. Making it compulsory for employees to sign a non-disclosure agreement

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 124

Dash wants to perform a DoS attack over 256 target URLs simultaneously.

Which of the following tools can Dash employ to achieve his objective?

- A. Ollydbg
- B. IDAPro
- C. HOIC
- D. OpenVAS

Answer: C

Explanation:

High Orbit Ion Cannon (HOIC) is a tool designed to perform stress testing on networks or servers. It can launch a Distributed Denial of Service (DDoS) attack by enabling an attacker to overwhelm a target with HTTP POST and GET requests. HOIC's distinctive feature is its ability to attack multiple targets (up to 256 URLs simultaneously) with configurable HTTP flood attacks. This capability makes it a preferred choice for attackers aiming to disrupt services on a large scale. Unlike tools designed for debugging or vulnerability scanning (e.g., IDA Pro, Ollydbg, OpenVAS), HOIC is specifically crafted for launching DoS/DDoS attacks, making it the correct answer for Dash's objective.

References: The Incident Handler (ECIH v3) courses and study guides delve into various cyber attack tools, including HOIC, explaining their functionalities and potential impact as part of the comprehensive cybersecurity threat landscape education.

NEW QUESTION # 125

XYZ Inc. was affected by a malware attack and James, being the incident handling and response (IH&R) team personnel handling the incident, found out that the root cause of the incident is a backdoor that has bypassed the security perimeter due to an existing vulnerability in the deployed firewall. James had contained the spread of the infection and removed the malware completely. Now the organization asked him to perform an incident impact assessment to identify the impact of the incident over the organization and he was also asked to prepare a detailed report of the incident.

Which of the following stages in IH&R process is James working on?

- A. Eradication
- B. Evidence gathering and forensics analysis
- C. Notification
- D. Post-incident activities

Answer: D
