NCLEX National Council Licensure Examination(NCLEX-RN) Sample Questions (Q476-Q481):

NEW QUESTION # 476

A 42-year-old client on an inpatient psychiatric unit comments that he was brought to the hospital by his wife because he had taken too many pills and states, "I just couldn't take it anymore." The nurse's best response to this disclosure would be:

- A. "You shouldn't do things like that, just tell someone you feel bad."
- B. "I'm sure you probably didn't mean to kill yourself."
- C. "How long have you been in the hospital."
- D. "Tell me more about what you couldn't take anymore."

Answer: D

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

Explanation:

(A) Disapproving gives the impression that the nurse has a right to pass judgment on the client's thoughts, actions, or ideas. (B)

Giving a broad opening gives the client encouragement to continue with verbalization.

(C) Failing to acknowledge the client's feelings conveys a lack of understanding and empathy. (D) Changing the subject takes the conversation away from the client and is indicative of the nurse's anxiety or insensitivity.

NEW QUESTION # 477

An 80-year-old male client with a history of arteriosclerosis is experiencing severe pain in his left leg that started approximately 20 minutes ago. When performing the admission assessment, the nurse would expect to observe which of the following:

- A. Both lower extremities cyanotic when placed in a dependent position
- B. Both lower extremities warm to touch with 2+ pedal pulses
- C. Decreased or absent pedal pulse in the left leg
- D. The left leg warmer to touch than the right leg

Answer: C

Explanation:

Explanation

(A) This statement describes a normal assessment finding of the lower extremities. (B) This assessment finding reflects problems caused by venous insufficiency. (C) Decreased or absent pedal pulses reflect a problem caused by arterial insufficiency. (D) The leg that is experiencing arterial insufficiency would be cool to touch due to the decreased circulation.

NEW QUESTION # 478

A 15-year-old child is admitted to the pediatric unit with a diagnosis of thalassemia. Which of the following would be included in educating the mother and child as part of discharge planning?

- A. Have the child's blood pressure monitored every week.
- B. Keep exercise at a minimum to reduce stress.
- C. Know the signs and symptoms of iron overload.
- D. Give oral iron medication every day.

Answer: C

Explanation:

(A) Oral iron supplements are contraindicated in thalassemia. (B) Although heart failure may be an end result of this disease, this action is unnecessary. (C) Iron overload is a potential complication of frequent blood transfusions of children with thalassemia. (D) Children should be encouraged to pursue activities related to their exercise tolerance.

NEW QUESTION # 479

The nurse is caring for a client who has diabetes insipidus. The nurse would describe this client's urine output pattern as:

- A. Polyuria
- B. Oliguria
- C. Anuria
- D. Dysuria

Answer: A

Explanation:

Section: Questions Set D

Explanation:

Explanation

(A) Anuria is defined as absence of urine output, which is not indicative of the urinary pattern of diabetes insipidus. (B) Oliguria is defined as <500 mL of urine per day, which is not a urinary output pattern associated with diabetes insipidus. (C) Dysuria is defined as difficult urination. Clients with diabetes insipidus do not have dysuria as a symptom of their disease. (D) Polyuria is a primary symptom of diabetes insipidus. These clients have decreased or absent vasopressin secretion, which causes water loss in the urine and sodium increases.

NEW QUESTION # 480

A client has been in labor 10 hours and is becoming very tired. She has dilated to 7 cm and is at 0 station with the fetus in a right occipitoposterior position. She is complaining of severe backache with each contraction. One comfort measure the nurse can employ is to:

- A. Use effleurage during the contraction
- B. Place her in knee-chest position during the contraction
- C. Apply strong sacral pressure during the contraction
- D. Have her push with each contraction

Answer: C

Explanation:

(A) This measure is inappropriate. The knee-chest position is employed to take pressure off the cord. (B) Effleurage is a comfort measure but not the one that will contribute most to the relief of backache caused by a posterior position. (C) Sacral pressure will counteract the pressure created by the position of the fetal head. (D) The client is not completely dilated. Pushing is contraindicated until the second stage of labor.
