Huawei HCIA-Datacom V1.0 Sample Questions (Q381-Q386):

NEW QUESTION # 381

Which of the following advantages is/are provided by inter-VLAN routing in one-arm routing mode?

- A. Reduced number of entries in the routing table
- B. Reduced use of IP addresses
- C. Reduced number of links
- D. Reduced number of devices

Answer: C

Explanation:

In one-arm routing (or router-on-a-stick) mode, a single physical link (with sub-interfaces) can carry traffic between multiple VLANs, reducing the number of physical links required. This approach minimizes cabling and port usage while still enabling inter-VLAN communication. However, it does not inherently reduce IP address usage, routing table entries, or the number of devices required.

NEW QUESTION # 382

When the ACL in the following figure is configured on a Telnet server, only the device with an IP address of 172.16.105.2 can remotely log in to the Telnet server.

bash
```

```
Copy code
```

```
acl number 2000
```

```
rule 5 permit source 172.16.105.2 0
```

- A. TRUE
- B. FALSE

Answer: A

Explanation:

Detailed Explanation: The ACL (Access Control List) configuration only permits IP address 172.16.105.2. By applying this ACL to the Telnet server, only devices from this IP can establish a Telnet connection, while all others are denied access. (Reference: HCIA-Datcom Training Material, ACLs and Telnet Access Control)
