NEW QUESTION # 16

An ecommerce site has dynamic shipping cost calculation. it allows the customers to see their potential shipping costs on the Product Detail Page before adding an item to the cart.
For this feature, shipping touts are calculated using the following logic:
* Set the shipping method on the Basket
* Add the item to the basket, calculate the basket total and get the shipping cost for this method
* Remove the item from the Basket to restore the original state
* The above process is repeated for each shipping method
During the testing it was discovered that the above code violates the spi.basket.addResolveInSameResquest quota.
What should the Architect do to resolve this issue and maintain the business requirement?

- A. Omit the removal of the Item and speed up the process for the customer by adding the product to the basket for them.
- B. Omit the calculation of shipping cost until the customer is ready to check out and has chosen the shipping method they want to
- C. Wrap the adding of product and shipping cost calculation in a transaction which Is then rolled back to restore the original state
- D. Wrap each Individual step of the process its own transaction Instead of using one transaction for all steps.

Answer: C

Explanation:
To resolve the issue of violating the spi.basket.addResolveInSameRequest quota and to maintain the functionality of dynamically calculating shipping costs for items before they are added to the basket, the best approach is:
* Option D: Wrapping the adding of product and shipping cost calculation in a transaction, which is then rolled back to restore the original state. This method ensures that the system can calculate potential shipping costs without permanently altering the state of the basket. This approach keeps the basket's original state intact while allowing for multiple shipping calculations, effectively managing the load on system resources and adhering to platform quotas.

NEW QUESTION # 17

There Is an Issue with the site when the domain Is opened from Google search results. After researching the problem. It turns out that the site returns * 404 page error when accessed with a parameter in the URL.
What should the Architect recommend to fix that issue?

- A. Add this snippet to the aliases configuration for the domain:
- B. Add dynamic redirect if the URL contains parameter to Home Show.Add this snippet to the aliases configuration for the domain
- C. Add dynamic catch-all rule to redirect to home page.
- D. Add this snippet to the aliases configurationfor the domain

Answer: C

Explanation:
To address the issue of the site returning a 404 error when accessed with a parameter from Google search results, a dynamic catch-all rule to redirect such requests to the homepage is an effective solution (Answer A).
This approach ensures that users landing from external links with appended parameters, which might not match any configured route or alias, are redirected to a valid page instead of seeing an error page. This improves the user experience and minimizes potential bounce rates caused by broken links or outdated URLs.

NEW QUESTION # 18

The Client plans to deploy a new payment provider and Order Management System on its existing B2C Commerce website. They have asked an Architect to advise which environment it should use to conduct load testing of its new integrations.

- A. The Development Instance of a rental Realm.
- B. The Development Instance of the existing Realm.
- C. The Production instance of the existing Realm.
- D. The Production Instance of a rental Realm.

Answer: B

Explanation:
For conducting load testing of new integrations with a payment provider and Order Management System, it is recommended to use the Development Instance of the existing Realm (Option B). This approach ensures that any issues found during testing do not affect the live production environment, while still allowing tests to be conducted in an environment that mirrors the production setup as closely as possible. This minimizes the risk of disruptive downtime or customer-facing errors when the integration goes live.

* First flow: Download files, ensuring all required files are available and ready for import.
* Second flow: Import the storefront catalog which likely has dependencies on the master catalog but is generally smaller and can be updated more rapidly.
* Third flow: Import the master catalog, as it typically contains the foundational data needed for various site functionalities.
