Salesforce Accredited B2B Commerce Developer Sample Questions (Q219-Q224):

NEW QUESTION # 219
Numerous flags, when set, have a direct impact on the result set provided by the Global API's. What is the default Global API DataSizing convention flag that is used by theAPI's unless otherwise specified?

- A. CCRZ.ccPAI.SZ_XL

- B. CCRZ.ccPAI.SZ_S
- C. CCRZ.ccPAI.SZ_M
- D. CCRZ.ccPAI.SZ_L

Answer: C

Explanation:
The default Global API Data-Sizing convention flag that is used by the API's unless otherwise specified is CCRZ.ccAPI.SZ_M. This flag indicates that the medium sizing block should be used for retrieving data, which includes the most commonly used fields and related entities. For example, ccrz.ccServiceProduct.getProducts() will use the SZ_M sizing block by default, unless another sizing block is specified as a parameter. NEW QUESTION # 220
A developer needs to implement specific styling for a standard component on a single page of the B2B Commerce store using an Aura template. The component should use the default style on all other pages How should the developer implement the required changes over multiple instances?

- A. Create a Custom Content Layout Lightning web component that imports the custom CSS file. Set up the page to use this Content Layout.
- B. Use a Custom CSS file in a static resource and add the import using the Edit Head Markup Editor in the Experience Builder.
- C. Create a Custom Theme Layout Aura component that imports the custom CSS file. Set up the page to use this Theme Layout.
- D. Use the Override CSR Editor in the Experience Builder and add the desired CSS to change the styles.

Answer: C

Explanation:
To implement specific styling for a standard component on a single page of the B2B Commerce store using an Aura template, a developer should create a custom theme layout Aura component that imports the custom CSS file and set up the page to use this theme layout. A theme layout is a type of Aura component that defines the header and footer of a page in the storefront. A theme layout can also import custom CSS files from static resources and apply them to the page. A developer can create a custom theme layout Aura component that imports the custom CSS file that contains the specific styling for the standard component and assign it to the page that needs the custom styling. This way, the custom styling will only affect the standard component on that page and not on other pages that use a different theme layout. Using a custom CSS file in a static resource and adding the import using the Edit Head Markup Editor in the Experience Builder is not a valid way to implement specific styling for a standard component on a single page, as it will affect all pages that use the same template. Creating a custom content layout Lightning web component that imports the custom CSS file and setting up the page to use this content layout is not a valid way either, as it will not affect the standard component that is outside of the contentlayout. Using the Override CSR Editor in the Experience Builder and adding the desired CSS to change the styles is not a valid way either, as it will affect all pages that use the same template. NEW QUESTION # 221
Which Global JavaScript Object should be extended when writing custom Remote Actions?

- A. CCRZ.
- B. CCRZ.cc
- C. CCRZ.cc_CallContext
- D. CCRZ.RemoteInvocation

Answer: B

Explanation:
The Global JavaScript Object that should be extended when writing custom Remote Actions is CCRZ.cc. This object contains all the Remote Actions that are defined in the cloudcraze managed package, which can be overridden or extended by subscriber code. The object also provides a mechanism for registering custom Remote Actions that can be invoked by the user interface components.

For example, CCRZ.cc.customAction = function(params, callback){ // do something } will define a custom Remote Action named customAction that can be called by CCRZ.cc.customAction(params, callback). Salesforce Reference: B2B Commerce and D2C Commerce Developer Guide, Remote Actions

NEW QUESTION # 222
What is a method to resolve if the current storefront customer is a Salesforce B2B Commerce guest user in an apex class?

- A. UserInfo.getUserType()
- B. ... UserType
- C. ccrz.cc_CallContext.currUser.isGuest
- D. ccrz.cc_CallContext.isGuest

Answer: D

Explanation:
A method to resolve if the current storefront customer is a Salesforce B2B Commerce guest user in an apex class is to use ccrz.cc_CallContext.isGuest. This property will return true if the current user is a guest user, or false otherwise. For example, if(ccrz.cc_CallContext.isGuest){ // do something for guest user } will execute some logic only for guest users. Salesforce References: B2B Commerce and D2C Commerce Developer Guide, Call Context

NEW QUESTION # 223
What is a valid way of referencing the global cc_api_CartExtentsion apex class via subscriber code?

- A. cloudcraze.cc_api_CartExtension
- B. c__cc_api_CartExtension
- C. ccrz__cc_api_CartExtension
- D. ccrz.cc_api_CartExtension

Answer: D

Explanation:
A valid way of referencing the global cc_api_CartExtension apex class via subscriber code is to use ccrz.cc_api_CartExtension. This is the name of the class that is defined in the cloudcraze managed package. The class is global, so it can be accessed by subscriber code. The other options are either invalid or incorrect.
