Axis Network Video Exam Sample Questions (Q297-Q302):

NEW QUESTION # 297

A customer wants his video surveillance system to completely cover the perimeter of his property. For the installer to ensure that the camera system is not subject to sabotage, he should

- A. Install more low-priced cameras to cover the complete site.
- B. Install thermal cameras.
- C. Make sure each camera is seen by at least one other camera.
- D. Use PoE, and not a PoE splitter.

Answer: C

Explanation:

To ensure that a surveillance system is not easily sabotaged, it's important to position cameras so that each camera is visible to at least one other camera. This overlapping field of view allows for continuous monitoring even if one camera is tampered with or disabled, providing a higher level of security and redundancy.

NEW QUESTION # 299

Why is germanium used for thermal camera lenses?

- A. It has a low index of refraction
- B. It has high optical dispersion
- C. It is transparent to the infrared wavelengths
- D. It is inexpensive

Answer: C

Explanation:

Germanium is used for thermal camera lenses because it is transparent to infrared wavelengths. This transparency allows infrared radiation to pass through the lens and reach the camera sensor, enabling the capture of thermal images. Germanium's optical properties make it an ideal material for thermal imaging applications. References: Axis Communications thermal camera specifications and technical documentation.

NEW QUESTION # 301

Increased noise levels in a scene will increase the

- A. Light sensitivity.
- B. Bandwidth usage.
- C. Brightness level.
- D. Contrast level.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Increased noise levels in a scene typically result in higher bandwidth usage. Noise introduces additional variations in the video signal, which the compression algorithm must encode, leading to increased data rates.

This is particularly noticeable in low-light conditions where electronic noise can significantly impact the video stream. Axis Network Video documentation explains that noise reduction techniques and proper lighting can help manage and reduce the bandwidth impact caused by increased noise levels in surveillance video.
