NLN Nursing Entrance Exam (Math, Science and Verbal) Sample Questions (Q135-Q140):

NEW QUESTION # 135
Reading Comprehension
Passage:
Antibiotics are effective against bacterial infections but do not work against viruses. Misuse of antibiotics can contribute to antibiotic resistance, making infections harder to treat.
What is the primary purpose of the passage?

- A. To inform about proper antibiotic use
- B. To describe immune system disorders
- C. To promote antibiotic use for all illnesses
- D. To explain how viruses reproduce

Answer: A

Explanation:
The passage explains what antibiotics treat, what they do not treat, and the consequences of misuse. Its purpose is informational, focusing on responsible use to prevent resistance. Option C best captures this purpose. The other options either misrepresent or ignore the main focus. Purpose questions on the NEX often test whether the reader understandswhythe passage was written.

NEW QUESTION # 136
A rectangle's length and width are 4 centimeters (cm) and 6 cm. What is 1
2
2
1
the area of this rectangle?
(Given Area = length × width.)

- A. 12 cm²
- B. 24 cm²
- C. 10 cm²
- D. 20 cm²

Answer: A

Explanation:
This problem tests area formulas and fraction application. First calculate the full area of the rectangle using the given formula: Area = length × width. Multiply 4 cm by 6 cm to get 24 cm². The question asks for one- half of the area, not the total area. Divide 24 by 2: 24 ÷ 2 = 12 cm². Therefore, option B is correct. Option C is the full area, not half. Option A results from subtracting instead of dividing. Option D represents an incorrect partial calculation. NEX geometry questions often require careful reading to determine whether the question asks for total area or a fraction of it.

NEW QUESTION # 137
The table below shows the average daily requirements of essential amino acids in the diet at various stages of human life.
Which of these amino acids is required in the greatest amount in the diet of toddlers?

- A. Lysine
- B. Phenylalanine and tyrosine
- C. Valine
- D. Leucine

Answer: D

Explanation:
This question requires interpreting data from a table, a common skill tested on the NEX Science exam.
Looking specifically at the column for toddlers, the amino acid with the highest listed requirement (measured in milligrams per kilogram of body mass per day) is leucine. Although lysine, valine, and phenylalanine with tyrosine are also required in significant amounts, leucine has the highest numerical value for toddlers. Leucine is an essential amino acid that plays a critical role in growth, tissue repair, and muscle protein synthesis, which are especially important during early childhood when rapid growth occurs.
Because toddlers are in a phase of accelerated development, higher amounts of certain amino acids are required compared to adults. The key to answering this question correctly is careful comparison of the numerical values within the toddler column, not overall trends across all age groups.

NEW QUESTION # 138
According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), approximately 7% of children and adolescents ages 6 to 19 in the United States have a high total cholesterol. If 120,000 children and adolescents in that age range were sampled, approximately how many of them would have a normal total cholesterol?

- A. 111,600
- B. 8,400
- C. 84,000
- D. 113,000

Answer: A

Explanation:
This is a percentage complement problem. If 7% of children have high cholesterol, then the remaining percentage with normal cholesterol is 100% # 7% = 93%. Convert 93% to a decimal by moving the decimal point two places to the left: 0.93. Multiply this decimal by the total number of children sampled: 0.93 ×
120,000 = 111,600. Therefore, approximately 111,600 children would have normal cholesterol levels, making option D correct. Option A incorrectly calculates 7% instead of the complement. Option C represents 70%, not 93%. Option B is close but incorrect due to rounding. NEX math questions often assess whether students understand that "normal" refers to the remainder after subtracting the affected group.

NEW QUESTION # 139
A financial counselor is reviewing the annual tax refunds received by a group of clients. The refunds are shown below:
$500, $857, $1,500, $500, $6,753, $2,500, $3,000
What is the median tax refund?

- A. $500
- B. $1,665
- C. $1,500
- D. $2,230

Answer: C

Explanation:
This question assesses understanding of the median, which is the middle value when data are ordered from least to greatest. First, list the refunds in ascending order:
$500, $500, $857, $1,500, $2,500, $3,000, $6,753.
There are seven values total, so the median is the fourth value in the ordered list. The fourth value is $1,500.
Therefore, option D is correct. Option B represents the mode (most frequent value), not the median. Options A and C are averages or midpoints that do not correspond to the true median position. On the NEX exam, students are frequently tested on distinguishing mean, median, and mode, so remembering that the median is strictly positional-not calculated-is essential.
