NEW QUESTION # 38

A user has logged an incident saying that transactions via the company website are very slow. The service desk team does not have the skills needed to investigate this. There are many different teams that this could be escalated to, including a web server team, an application team, an infrastructure team, and a performance management team.

Which is the BEST approach for the service desk to use for escalating this incident?

- A. Escalate to the performance management team, who will then escalate to a different team if needed
- B. Follow the predefined procedure for investigating web performance incidents
- C. Use swarming to involve people from multiple different teams in the investigation
- D. Declare a major incident and start the major incident management procedure

Answer: B

Explanation:

Following a predefined procedure for investigating web performance incidents ensures a structured and efficient escalation, reducing delays and avoiding confusion about responsibility.

NEW QUESTION # 39

Sometimes they miss an important event and this causes service level targets to be breached. What is the BEST approach to resolve this issue?

A service operations team monitors a critical service. They receive thousands of events every day and operators are trained, so they know which events require a response. Sometimes they miss an important event and this causes service level targets to be breached. What is the BEST approach to resolve this issue?

- A. Recruit additional operations staff
- B. Improve operations team training
- C. Renegotiate service level targets
- D. Improve filtering of operations data

Answer: D

Explanation:

NEW QUESTION # 40

Which of the following involves consideration of the skills and availability of both internal and external resources?

- A. Shift-left approach
- B. Build vs buy
- C. Triage prioritization
- D. Swarming

Answer: B

Explanation:

Build vs buy involves evaluating the skills and availability of both internal and external resources to decide whether to develop a solution in-house or acquire it from an external provider.

NEW QUESTION # 41

An internal service provider has made the service desk a single point of contact for all user queries, including incidents, service requests, complaints, and compliments. To ensure a fair allocation of the service desk resources, a common rule for processing all incoming queues has been agreed: "first in, first out." It has soon become apparent that some incidents reported by users spend too much time waiting to be processed and triaged by the service desk. This leads to delayed incident resolution and negative business impact. What is the BEST way to improve the situation?

- A. Prioritize incoming queries based on their type and associated urgency
- B. Increase the number of service desk agents to process the incoming queries faster
- C. Recommend users to submit queries well in advance to ensure timely processing
- D. Implement separate service desks for incident and service requests

Answer: A

Explanation:

The best way to improve the situation is to prioritize incoming queries based on their type and associated urgency (B). The ITIL 4 Specialist: Create, Deliver and Support documentation (Section 4.2.3) states:

"Prioritization based on impact and urgency ensures that the most critical incidents are addressed promptly, optimizing resource use and minimizing business impact." The "first in, first out" rule fails when high-impact incidents are delayed, and this approach adjusts resource allocation dynamically. Option A increases costs without addressing prioritization; option C adds complexity; and option D shifts responsibility to users. The guide emphasizes: "Effective prioritization is a key practice in managing demand and ensuring service continuity." Reference: ITIL 4 Specialist: Create, Deliver and Support, Section 4.2.3 - Prioritization in Service Desk Operations.

NEW QUESTION # 42

- A. Insourcing
- B. Offshoring
- C. Onshoring
- D. Nearshoring

Answer: D

Explanation:

Nearshoring involves sourcing services from a supplier in a nearby country with similar working hours, facilitating easier communication and collaboration.
