OCPE Pesticide Applicator Category 7A General and Household Pest Control Exam Sample Questions (Q31-Q36):

NEW QUESTION # 31

For an indoor application of TEMPRID for bed bugs, ____ application rate.

- A. Use 0.54% per gallon of water
- B. Do not exceed the 0.075% per gallon of water
- C. Use the 0.15% per gallon of water

Answer: C

Explanation:

The TEMPRID SC label specifies that for indoor bed bug applications, the recommended concentration is 0.15% per gallon of water (equivalent to 16 mL per gallon) to ensure efficacy against resistant bed bug populations. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Bedbugs) aligns with label instructions for effective treatment. Option A (0.075%) is the rate for general pests like roaches, not bed bugs. Option C (0.54%) exceeds the label rate and is incorrect.

NEW QUESTION # 32

When used in integrated bed bug elimination programs, TEMPRID:

- A. Efficacy is not affected by heat treatment; therefore TEMPRID can be applied before heat treatments
- B. Applications cannot be made prior to heat treatments
- C. Efficacy is affected by heat treatments

Answer: A

Explanation:

TEMPRID SC's efficacy is not affected by heat treatments, as its active ingredients (imidacloprid and beta-cyfluthrin) remain stable under high temperatures used in bedbug heat treatments. The TEMPRID SC label and the General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Bedbugs) confirm that TEMPRID can be applied before heat treatments as part of an integrated approach, as heat drives bedbugs out of hiding, increasing their contact with the pesticide. Option A (cannot be made prior to heat treatments) is incorrect, as the label allows this. Option B (efficacy affected by heat) is incorrect, as TEMPRID's performance is not diminished by heat.

NEW QUESTION # 33

Control of bedbugs is best achieved through:

- A. Integrated pest management practices
- B. Use of residual insecticides
- C. A regimen of programmed pesticide application

Answer: A

Explanation:

Bedbug control is most effective using Integrated Pest Management (IPM) practices, which combine multiple methods such as inspection, monitoring, heat treatments, vacuuming, and targeted pesticide use. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Bedbugs) emphasizes IPM due to bedbugs' resistance to many pesticides and their ability to hide in cracks and crevices. Option A (programmed pesticide application) is less effective and can lead to resistance. Option C (residual insecticides) is a component of control but not the best standalone method.

NEW QUESTION # 34

The most common cockroach found in buildings is the ____ cockroach.

- A. German
- B. American
- C. Brown-banded

Answer: A

Explanation:

The German cockroach (Blattella germanica) is the most common cockroach found in buildings, particularly in kitchens and bathrooms, due to its preference for warm, humid environments and rapid reproduction. The General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Cockroaches) identifies the German cockroach as the most prevalent indoor species in the U.S., including New Jersey. Option A (American cockroach) is larger and more common in sewers or basements. Option B (Brown-banded cockroach) is less common and prefers drier areas.

NEW QUESTION # 35

For an indoor application for cockroaches, the suggested application method is to:

- A. Use a coarse low-pressure spray and treat entry points, feeding and hiding areas, and cracks and crevices
- B. Use a coarse spray at 80 psi and apply to entire floor area
- C. Spray entire area at a low pressure under 50 psi

Answer: A

Explanation:

For cockroach control indoors, the TEMPRID SC label and the General Pest Management: Guide for Commercial Applicators - Category 7A (Chapter 7: Cockroaches) recommend using a coarse low- pressure spray to treat specific areas where cockroaches are active, such as entry points, feeding and hiding areas, and cracks and crevices. This targeted approach ensures effective control while minimizing pesticide use. Option B (spray entire area) is incorrect, as broadcast treatments are not recommended for cockroaches indoors; spot or crack-and-crevice treatments are more effective.

Option C (coarse spray at 80 psi) is incorrect, as 80 psi is too high for indoor applications, risking overspray and dispersal of pests.
