NEW QUESTION # 78

The team working at the Initiative Horizon needs to make decisions about which features to deliver and in what order. They decide to use the following technique:

- A. Value stream mapping
- B. Kano Analysis
- C. Relative estimation
- D. Retrospectives

Answer: B

Explanation:

Kano Analysis is a valuable technique at the Initiative Horizon for determining the priority and sequence of features . It helps practitioners categorize features based on their impact on customer satisfaction: threshold (basic), performance, and excitement (delighters). By identifying which features are " must-haves " for the solution to be viable, the team can ensure these are sequenced early in the backlog. This categorization prevents the team from spending resources on " delighters " before the basic user needs are met. Kano Analysis provides an objective framework for decision-making, allowing stakeholders to align on a delivery order that maximizes value and ensures the product resonates with the target audience from the very first release.
