NEW QUESTION # 255

What is one benefit of Story acceptance criteria?

- A. To provide Story details from a deployment point of view
- B. To provide Story details from a designer point of view
- C. To provide Story details from a release-planning point of view
- D. To provide Story details from a testing point of view

Answer: D

Explanation:

One benefit of Story acceptance criteria is to provide Story details from a testing point of view. Acceptance criteria are the conditions or rules that a user story must meet to be considered complete and acceptable by the customer or stakeholder. They define the scope and boundaries of the user story and help the team to understand what needs to be done and how to test it. Acceptance criteria also facilitate communication and collaboration between the team and the customer or stakeholder, as they provide a common language and a shared understanding of the expected outcome. NEW QUESTION # 256

Team A has seven developers that can define and build any application the organization requires. Team A works with another team to test and deploy their work. Can Team A be considered a high-functioning Agile Team?

- A. No, because they are not cross-functional
- B. Yes, because they can build any application the organization requires
- C. No, because they have fewer than ten developers
- D. Yes, because they use another team to deploy

Answer: A

Explanation:

A high-functioning Agile Team is a cross-functional group of typically ten or fewer individuals with all the skills necessary to define, build, test, and deliver value to their customer¹. Team A is not cross-functional because they depend on another team to test and deploy their work, which creates handoffs and delays in the value delivery process. A cross-functional team should be able to perform all the activities required to deliver a potentially releasable increment of value in each iteration². Team A should collaborate with the other team to integrate their testing and deployment capabilities and form a single Agile Team that can deliver value independently. What is one responsibility of Product Management?

- A. Define priorities in the ART Backlog
- B. Own Spike stories on the Team Backlog
- C. Maintain the Architectural Runway
- D. Provide estimates for the Team Backlog

Answer: A

Explanation:

Product Management is responsible for defining and prioritizing the ART Backlog, which consists of features and enablers that align with the program vision and roadmap. NEW QUESTION # 258

During the Inspect and Adapt event, how are reflection, data collection, problem solving, and identification of improvement actions used?

- A. To help the team bond and work more efficiently together
- B. To increase the quality and reliability of the next PI
- C. To enhance and improve the Innovation and Planning practices
- D. To evaluate better implementation steps

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to the SAFe for Teams SP (6.0) - SAFe Practitioner handbook and study guide, the Inspect and Adapt event is a significant event held at the end of each PI, where the current state of the solution is demonstrated and evaluated. Teams then reflect and identify improvement backlog items via a structured problem-solving workshop. The purpose of the Inspect and Adapt event is to increase the quality and reliability of the next PI by applying the following practices:

* Reflection: Teams review the PI objectives, the system demo, and the quantitative and qualitative measurements to assess the current state of the solution and the ART performance. Teams also share their learnings, successes, and challenges with each other and the stakeholders.

* Data collection: Teams collect data from various sources, such as team and program metrics, customer feedback, surveys, and assessments, to measure the outcomes and the health of the solution and the ART. Teams also use tools such as the PI burndown chart, the cumulative flow diagram, and the team self-assessment to visualize the data and identify trends and patterns.

* Problem solving: Teams use a structured problem-solving workshop to identify the most critical issues or impediments that are affecting the solution or the ART. Teams use techniques such as brainstorming

NEW QUESTION # 259

Which of the following SAFe Core Competencies of Business Agility includes the built-in quality dimension?

- A. Agile Product Delivery
- B. Team and Technical Agility
- C. Enterprise Solution Delivery
- D. Organizational Agility

Answer: B

Explanation:

The SAFe Core Competencies of Business Agility are the seven essential skills that enable enterprises to achieve true business agility and thrive in the digital age¹. The built-in quality dimension is one of the five dimensions of Team and Technical Agility, which is the competency that describes the critical skills and Lean- Agile principles and practices that high-performing Agile teams and teams of Agile teams use to create high- quality solutions for their customers². The built-in quality dimension ensures that every element and every increment of the solution reflects quality standards throughout the development lifecycle². The other options are incorrect because:

* A. Agile Product Delivery is the competency that describes how to deliver innovative solutions to the market that delight customers and meet their needs and expectations³. It does not include the built-in quality dimension, although it does rely on it as a prerequisite for achieving continuous delivery and release on demand³.

* C. Organizational Agility is the competency that describes how to adapt strategy and operations quickly to meet the changing needs of customers, competitors, and markets⁴. It does not include the built-in quality dimension, although it does depend on it as a foundation for enabling faster feedback and learning cycles⁴.

* D. Enterprise Solution Delivery is the competency that describes how to build and evolve the world's largest applications, networks, and cyber-physical systems⁵. It does not include the built-in quality dimension, although it does require it as a key enabler for achieving solution integrity, compliance, and alignment with the enterprise architecture⁵.
