Huawei HCIP-Datacom-Campus Network Planning and Deployment V1.5 Sample Questions (Q306-Q311):

NEW QUESTION # 306

In an MPLS VPN network, when a PE device receives a VPNv4 route advertised by another PE device, which of the following operations can "convert the route into an IPv4 route and advertise it to the local CE device"?

- A. No configuration required; PE devices automatically convert and advertise routes.
- B. Enable the MPLS protocol on the CE device to directly receive VPNv4 routes.
- C. Configure route translation on the P device to convert VPNv4 routes to IPv4 routes.
- D. Configure routing policies on the PE device to export VPNv4 routes to a CE-PE routing protocol (such as OSPF).

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 307

(When a network device sends a registration request to iMaster NCE-Campus, which of the following is the destination port number?)

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the Huawei CloudCampus Solution, device registration is a key step that allows network devices such as switches, routers, and APs to establish a trusted management relationship with iMaster NCE-Campus. When a device is powered on and configured for cloud or controller-based management, it sends a registration request to the controller using a predefined service port.

According to HCIP Datacom Campus Network documentation, port 18008 is used as the destination port for device registration requests sent to iMaster NCE-Campus. This port is specifically reserved for device onboarding and registration services, ensuring secure and standardized communication during the initial connection phase. Once the registration is successful, the controller can authenticate the device, assign it to a site, and push management and service configurations.

The other options are not correct in this context. Port 53 is used for DNS services and has no role in controller registration. Port 179 is used by BGP for routing protocol communication and is unrelated to device management. Port 10020 is commonly associated with other management or telemetry functions but is not used for device registration in CloudCampus solutions.

Correctly configuring network connectivity and firewall rules to allow traffic to destination port 18008 is essential for successful zero-touch provisioning and automatic onboarding of devices. Therefore, the correct destination port number for device registration requests to iMaster NCE-Campus is 18008, making option D the correct answer.

NEW QUESTION # 308

In the WAN BGP protocol, if "the physical link between EBGP neighbors is broken, but they are reachable through other paths, " which of the following problems will this cause?

- A. BGP neighbor relationships are immediately broken and cannot be recovered.
- B. Automatically switch to other paths to establish BGP neighbors without manual intervention.
- C. Relies on BGP holdtime (default 180s) to disconnect neighbor relationships after the timeout.
- D. BGP neighbor relationships are unaffected, and routes are transmitted normally.

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 309

(Which of the following are the typical deployment scenarios when iMaster NCE-Campus is used to deploy a network?)

- A. VXLAN Fabric network
- B. Small-sized network
- C. Branch network
- D. Campus network

Answer: A,D

Explanation:

iMaster NCE-Campus is Huawei's centralized management and control platform specifically designed for campus network scenarios. According to HCIP Datacom Campus Network documentation, its primary purpose is to provide unified planning, automated deployment, policy control, and intelligent O&M for campus environments. Therefore, campus networks are one of the most typical and core deployment scenarios for iMaster NCE-Campus.

In addition, iMaster NCE-Campus is widely used to deploy VXLAN Fabric networks within campuses.

VXLAN Fabric is a key technology for building scalable, virtualized, and multi-tenant campus networks.

iMaster NCE-Campus simplifies VXLAN Fabric deployment by automating underlay and overlay configuration, VN creation, VNI assignment, and BGP EVPN policy distribution. This makes VXLAN Fabric networks another standard and typical deployment scenario supported by the platform.

Branch networks are not considered a typical deployment scenario for iMaster NCE-Campus. Branch network management is usually handled by iMaster NCE-WAN in SD-WAN solutions, which focuses on WAN connectivity, branch access, and centralized WAN control rather than campus-oriented services.

Similarly, small-sized networks are not defined as a deployment scenario category in iMaster NCE-Campus documentation. The platform is designed for medium to large campus environments where centralized management and automation provide the most value.

Therefore, the typical deployment scenarios when using iMaster NCE-Campus are Campus networks and VXLAN Fabric networks, making options A and B the correct answers.

NEW QUESTION # 310

In the deployment of the OSPF protocol in a wide area network, what is the core function of the "Stub area"?

- A. Allow the advertising of Type 5 LSAs (AS external routes) within the area.
- B. Prohibit the publication of Type 5 LSAs within the area, only allow Type 3 LSAs (inter-area summary routes), and reduce the number of route entries.
- C. Achieve indirect connection between non-backbone regions and Area 0.
- D. Disable OSPF authentication and simplify the configuration process.

Answer: B
