What is the Extended IFS used in 802.11 contention?

- A. When 802.11ac must coexist with 802.11n
- B. When the lower data rates are used and you want the fastest medium access times
- C. When a frame reception begins but the received frame is incomplete or corrupted based on the FCS
- D. When the higher data rates are used and you want the fastest medium access times

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 100

You have received reports of performance problems in a BSS. One specific user is indicating that her downloads are taking a very long time compared to other users around her. You want to determine if the AP is sending frames multiple times to get through to the user's computer.

Where should you monitor with the protocol analyzer to see retries from the AP in this scenario?

- A. Very near the AP
- B. Very near the client STA
- C. Capture from another AP in another BSS
- D. Directly in the middle of the AP and client STA

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 101

What should the To DS and From DS flags be set to in an Association Response frame?

- A. To DS = 0, From DS = 1
- B. To DS = 0, From DS = 0
- C. To DS = 1, From DS = 0
- D. To DS = 1, From DS = 1

Answer: A

Explanation:

The To DS and From DS flags should be set to 0 in an Association Response frame. An Association Response frame is a type of management frame that is transmitted by an AP to accept or reject an association request from a STA. The To DS (To Distribution System) and From DS (From Distribution System) flags are two bits in the Frame Control field of the MAC header that indicate whether a frame is destined for or originated from the DS (Distribution System), which is a system that connects multiple BSSs together. The To DS and From DS flags can have four possible combinations: 00, 01, 10, or 11. For an Association Response frame, which is sent from an AP to a STA within a BSS, both flags should be set to 0. NEW QUESTION # 102

Several users have reported WLAN network connection issues and the users connect to the same AP. These users are spread throughout a 320 square meter area. Using a spectrum analyzer, you see RF energy across the entire 2.4 GHz band at significant signal strength levels. The users all connect using either HT or ERP devices.

What is the likely cause of this problem within this area?

- A. Video camera
- B. Microwave oven
- C. Wide-band jammer
- D. Bluetooth devices

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 103

What is the function of 802.11 Management frames?

- A. Communicate configuration changes between WLAN controller and APs
- B. Manage the flow of data
- C. Manage the BSS
- D. Prioritize network administration traffic

Answer: C

Explanation:

The function of 802.11 management frames is to manage the BSS. A BSS (Basic Service Set) is a group of STAs (stations) that share a common SSID (Service Set Identifier) and communicate with each other through an AP (access point) or directly in an ad hoc mode. Management frames are one of the three types of 802.11 frames, along with control and data frames. Management frames are used to establish, maintain, and terminate associations between STAs and APs, as well as to advertise and discover BSSs, exchange security information, report errors, and perform other management functions. The other options are not correct, as they are not functions of 802.11 management frames. Prioritizing network administration traffic, communicating configuration changes between WLAN controller and APs, and managing the flow of data are functions of other types of frames or protocols.
