NEW QUESTION # 360

Refer to the exhibit. An engineer runs a network that consists of Cisco Nexus devices. The network is distributed between data centers in different locations. The switches are configured using standalone connections and a single point of failure. Which process is being automated by the Ansible playbook?

- A. executing HSRP configuration from the Ansible controller node
- B. executing HSRP configuration from the srv-1a inventory host
- C. enabling HSRP on the nxos_rtr inventory host
- D. enabling HSRP on the rtr-1a inventory host

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Ansible playbook in the exhibit is designed to automate the configuration of HSRP (Hot Standby Router Protocol) on a Cisco Nexus switch listed in the nxos_rtr inventory group. Here's what the playbook does:

* Hosts: The playbook is targeting nxos_rtr hosts.

* Task: The task uses the nxos_hsrp module to configure HSRP.

* Parameters: Various parameters such as group, VIP, priority, interface, authentication, and version are set for HSRP configuration.

* Delegation: The configuration is delegated to the srv-1a inventory host, but it is still targeting the nxos_rtr for the actual HSRP configuration.

Therefore, the playbook is enabling HSRP on the nxos_rtr inventory host.
