CSI Canadian Securities Course Exam2 Sample Questions (Q116-Q121):

NEW QUESTION # 116

A portfolio manager at an investment firm is analyzing the behavior of stocks in various market conditions. They believe markets are efficient and that all public and non-public and non-public available information is fully reflected in current process. How should the construct their investment portfolio?

- A. Create a passive investment portfolio with exchange- traded funds.
- B. Actively buy and sell stocks in an attempt to beat the stock market's average returns.
- C. Use technical analysis to review all past price movements and trends.
- D. Use both fundamental and technical analysis to add value to the portfolio.

Answer: A

Explanation:

When an investor or portfolio manager adheres to the belief in market efficiency-specifically the strong form of the Efficient Market Hypothesis (EMH)-it implies that all information (public and non-public) is fully reflected in security prices. This belief diminishes the value of active investment strategies, such as fundamental or technical analysis, as these approaches presume the possibility of identifying undervalued or overvalued securities.

As such, the logical approach in this scenario would be to adopt a passive investment strategy. This includes constructing a portfolio of exchange-traded funds (ETFs) or index funds that replicate the performance of a broad market index, such as the S&P/TSX Composite Index. A passive approach aligns with the principle of market efficiency, as it avoids attempts to outperform the market, which are considered futile under the EMH.

NEW QUESTION # 117

For institutional trading, when does the investor need to provide trade-matching elements?

- A. Once the trade clears.
- B. With the initial order.
- C. After the dealer issues a trade execution notice.
- D. Once the custodian confirms the trade.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Trade-matching is a critical process in institutional trading, ensuring that details of a trade (e.g., price, quantity, and settlement terms) align among the involved parties, including the investor, dealer, and custodian.

In Canada, institutional trade matching must occur within a specific timeline, and the investor is responsible for providing trade-matching elements after the trade execution notice is issued by the dealer.

Step-by-Step Explanation:

- * What is Trade Matching? Trade matching involves the comparison of trade details between the buyer and seller (and their intermediaries) to confirm accuracy and reduce settlement risks.
- * When Does the Investor Provide Trade-Matching Elements?
  - * After the dealer executes the trade, the dealer issues a trade execution notice to the investor.
  - * The investor must then provide the necessary trade-matching details, such as account information, settlement instructions, and any other required confirmations.
  - * This process ensures that the trade can move seamlessly through to settlement.
  - * Why Not Other Options?
    - * Option B (Once the custodian confirms the trade): Incorrect. The custodian's role is typically involved in the final settlement process and not in providing trade-matching details.
    - * Option C (With the initial order): Incorrect. Trade-matching details are provided after the trade is executed, not at the time the order is placed.

* Option D (Once the trade clears): Incorrect. Trade matching occurs before the trade clears to ensure settlement.

Final answer:

* Option A (After the dealer issues a trade execution notice): Correct.

* Other options are incorrect based on the standard processes for institutional trade matching in Canada.
