- A. childhood needs become apparent.
- B. capacities and interests integrate.
- C. play becomes work-like.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Ginzberg and his associates described the realistic stage (ages 17 to early 20s) as the period when individuals clarify and integrate their capacities and interests with realistic career options. This stage involves exploring and then committing to a vocational choice that matches one's abilities and aspirations. NEW QUESTION # 109

After a year of counseling, a client is laid off from work and can no longer afford counseling. To avoid a break in the therapeutic process, the counselor suggests that the client babysit the counselor's children in return for services. The preceding is an example of

- A. bargaining.
- B. bartering.
- C. trading.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Bartering is the exchange of goods or services (in this case, babysitting) instead of money for counseling services. Ethical guidelines advise that bartering should only occur when it is not clinically contraindicated and is not exploitative. The ACA Code of Ethics addresses bartering as an arrangement that should be considered carefully and documented.

How do effective parents help their children develop these intellectual and social skills?

- A. establishing trust through warm responses
- B. clearly communicating identified goals
- C. rewarding the child's desirable behaviors

Answer: A
