EPIC CEE: Bridges Interfaces Application Essentials Exam (2026 Version) Sample Questions (Q40-Q45):

NEW QUESTION # 40

When performing Duplicate Prevention, what type of record is used to determine the high and low thresholds?

- A. Identity Duplicate Configuration
- B. Bridges Duplicate Configuration
- C. Bridges Duplicate Checker
- D. Identity Patient Duplicate

Answer: A

Explanation:

Duplicate Prevention logic is shared across the Epic platform through the Identity Duplicate Configuration (IDC) record. This record defines the scoring logic and the high and low thresholds used to determine if a patient being created by an interface is a definite match to an existing record, a potential duplicate that needs review, or a completely new patient. Bridges leverages these enterprise-wide Identity settings to ensure consistency in how duplicates are handled.

NEW QUESTION # 41

Many interfaces that file patient information are required by default to use Patient Validation and may not start without documenting why the interface should skip validation.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

Because of the high risk associated with misidentifying patients, Epic embeds "hard stops" in the Bridges configuration. For many standard interface types, the system requires Patient Validation to be active. If an organization decides to disable it, the administrator must provide a formal justification within the system before the interface is permitted to start.

NEW QUESTION # 42

Table translations can be either case sensitive or not case sensitive.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

Bridges provides a configuration toggle for Case Sensitivity within translation tables. This is crucial because some external systems might send values like "M" and "m" interchangeably, while others might use case to distinguish between two different codes. Setting this correctly ensures that the interface accurately matches the incoming string to the intended internal value.

NEW QUESTION # 43

It is possible to start the Communications Daemons for both incoming and outgoing interfaces at the same time.

- A. False
- B. True

Answer: B

Explanation:

Bridges management tools allow administrators to select multiple interfaces-regardless of whether they are sending data (outgoing) or receiving data (incoming)-and issue a "Start" command to their respective Communications Daemons simultaneously. This facilitates efficient management during system startups or after maintenance.

NEW QUESTION # 44

Which of the following conditions could prevent you from being able to skip a message?

- A. The message was resubmitted
- B. The message is waiting for a record lock
- C. The message has been processed
- D. The message is an incoming message

Answer: C

Explanation:

"Skipping" a message is a corrective action used to move a message out of the processing queue when it is blocking other messages or contains data that should not be filed. If a message has already been processed (successfully filed or completed its lifecycle), it is no longer in the active queue to be skipped. You can only skip messages that are currently in a "waiting" or "error" status within the active queues.
