Lpi LPIC-1 Exam 101, Part 1 of 2, version 5.0 Sample Questions (Q175-Q180):

NEW QUESTION # 175

Which of the following commands updates the linker cache of shared libraries?

- A. ldconfig
- B. soconfig
- C. mkldconfig
- D. mkcache
- E. lddconfig

Answer: A

Explanation:

The command that updates the linker cache of shared libraries is ldconfig. This command creates, updates, and removes the necessary links and cache for the run-time linker, ld.so, to the most recent shared libraries found in the specified directories. To add a new library directory to the cache, you need to edit the /etc/ld.so.

conf file and rerun ldconfig. You can use the -p option to print the current cache contents<sup>1</sup>.

The other commands are either invalid or unrelated to the linker cache. mkcache, soconfig, and mkldconfig are not standard Linux commands. lddconfig is a typo for ldd, which is a command that prints the shared libraries required by a program<sup>2</sup>.

NEW QUESTION # 176

Which Debian package management tool asks the configuration questions for a specific already installed package just as if the package were being installed for the first time? (Specify ONLY the command without any path or parameters.)

Answer:

Explanation:

dpkg-reconfigure

Explanation

The command dpkg-reconfigure is a Debian package management tool that asks the configuration questions for a specific already installed package just as if the package were being installed for the first time. It can be used to reconfigure a package that was previously installed with default settings, or to change the settings of a package that requires user input during installation. It can also be used to fix a broken configuration file or to restore the original configuration file of a package. References:
