Cisco Certified Design Expert (CCDE) Written Exam Sample Questions (Q347-Q352):

NEW QUESTION # 347

Sometimes SDN leverages various overlay networking technologies to create layer(s) of network abstraction. What describes an overlay network?

- A. It transmits packets that traverse over network devices like switches and routers
- B. It is responsible for the delivery of packets; NAT- or VRF-based segregation is required
- C. It encapsulates packets at source and destination, which incurs additional overhead
- D. Packet delivery and reliability occurs at Layer 3 and Layer 4

Answer: C

NEW QUESTION # 348

Refer to the table.

A customer investigates connectivity options for a DCI between two production data centers to aid a large-scale migration project. The migration is estimated to take 20 months to complete but might extend an additional 10 months if issues arise. All connectivity options meet the requirements to migrate workloads.

Which transport technology provides the best ROI based on cost and flexibility?

- A. DWDM over dark fiber
- B. Metro Ethernet
- C. CWDM over dark fiber
- D. MPLS

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 349

What best describes the difference between Automation and Orchestration?

- A. Automation refers to an automatic process for completing multiple tasks with conditions and Orchestration refers to executing tasks in parallel.
- B. Automation refers to an automatic process for completing a single task and Orchestration refers to assembling and coordinating a set of tasks and conditions.
- C. Automation describes a hands-off configuration process while Orchestration refers to sets of automation tasks that require the network administrator to coordinate
- D. Automation refers to scripting languages (Python, Ansible etc.) and Orchestration refers to commercial products that control configuration deployment

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 350

An existing wireless network was designed to support data traffic only. You must now install context-aware services for location tracking. What changes must be applied to the existing wireless network to increase the location accuracy? (Choose two)

- A. Use directional antennas to provide more cell overlapping
- B. Increase the access point density to create an average inter-access point distance of less than 40 feet or 12.2 meters.
- C. Fine tune the radio configuration of the access point to have a higher average transmission power to achieve better coverage.
- D. Add access points along the perimeter of the coverage area.
- E. Install additional access points in monitor mode where the co-channel interference would otherwise be affected.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

For accurate location tracking in wireless networks, signal triangulation methods like RSSI, TDoA, or Angle of Arrival require:

* A (Perimeter coverage): Adding APs along the perimeter improves location accuracy by minimizing blind spots and improving triangulation geometry.

* B (Higher density, <40 ft spacing): Reducing inter-AP distance increases overlapping coverage, which provides more data points for accurate positioning.

Other options explained:

* C: Directional antennas limit overlapping coverage, reducing triangulation accuracy.

* D: Monitor mode APs can assist in location services but are secondary to proper placement and density.

* E: Increasing transmit power may enlarge cell size but can decrease accuracy by reducing overlapping AP zones.

NEW QUESTION # 351

While computer networks and sophisticated applications have allowed individuals to be more productive the need to prepare for security threats has increased dramatically. A six-step methodology on security incident handling has been adopted by many organizations including service providers, enterprises, and government organizations to ensure that organizations are aware of significant security incidents and act quickly to stop the attacker, minimize damage caused, and prevent follow on attacks or similar incidents in the future Drag and drop the actions on the left to the targets on the right in the correct order.
