VMware vSphere 8.x Advanced Design Sample Questions (Q60-Q65):

NEW QUESTION # 60
An architect is working on the design documentation for a new vSphere solution. The architect has completed a conceptual model based on the following requirement:
REQ001 - The solution must use shared storage
What could the architect include in the logical design to meet this requirement?

- A. The use of an HCI solution for a datastore
- B. The use of an all flash vSAN datastore
- C. The use of File Based Storage, including the list of permissions applied to the share
- D. The use of an NFS mount point, including the IP address of the NFS server it is hosted on

Answer: D

Explanation:
The requirement specifies that the solution must use shared storage, which refers to a storage solution that can be accessed by multiple ESXi hosts simultaneously. NFS (Network File System) is a widely used method for providing shared storage in a vSphere environment. By including the NFS mount point and the IP address of the NFS server, the architect can specify how the shared storage will be configured and accessed by the ESXi hosts, meeting the requirement for shared storage.

NEW QUESTION # 61
An architect is working with stakeholders to define requirements for architecting a new VMware vSphere design.
What are two strategies for engaging with stakeholders to achieve this goal? (Choose two.)

- B. The architect conducts workshops with stakeholders to gather business and technical requirements.
- C. The architect conducts workshops with the virtualization technical team to gather deployment justifications.
- D. The architect conducts multiple rounds of interviews with stakeholders, iteratively refining requirements.
- E. The architect conducts workshops and interviews limited to those stakeholders identified in the assessment phase of the project.

Answer: B,D

Explanation:
The architect conducts workshops with stakeholders to gather business and technical requirements.
Workshops provide a collaborative environment where the architect can interact with key stakeholders to gather both business and technical requirements. This approach helps ensure that the final design aligns with the goals and needs of the business while considering the technical constraints and capabilities.
The architect conducts multiple rounds of interviews with stakeholders, iteratively refining requirements.
Multiple rounds of interviews allow the architect to gather input over time, refining the requirements and addressing any evolving needs. This iterative approach ensures that the solution meets the stakeholders' expectations and adapts as new information emerges.
