Questions (Q73-Q78):

NEW QUESTION # 73

A customer has a NetApp ONTAP cluster using only the FC protocol over a 4-port UTA2 adapter in slot 1 using ports 1a and 1b. Why are both ports e1c and e1d unavailable for a NAS workload?

- A. The LIFs are migrated to other ports.
- B. The UTA2 ports are configured in FC mode.
- C. The physical ports are in an interface group.
- D. The LIFs are configured in another IPspace.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When UTA2 ports are configured in Fibre Channel mode, they operate exclusively as FC target ports. In this mode, the ports cannot be used for Ethernet-based NAS workloads, which makes them unavailable for protocols such as NFS or SMB.

NEW QUESTION # 74

Your NetApp ONTAP cluster has been experiencing intermittent latency issues during peak hours. As an administrator, you want to set up alerting and investigate the root cause. Which NetApp tool can help you monitor performance and configure alerts based on threshold breaches?

- A. Active IQ Config Advisor
- B. Active IQ OneCollect
- C. ONTAP System Manager
- D. Active IQ Unified Manager

Answer: D

Explanation:

Active IQ Unified Manager continuously monitors ONTAP performance metrics and allows administrators to define thresholds and alerts. This makes it possible to detect latency issues during peak hours and analyze performance data to identify the root cause.

NEW QUESTION # 75

An administrator has an existing FlexVol volume that is accessed by Linux hosts over NFSv3. A CIFS share to the same FlexVol volume was created for SMB access. Some Windows users are unable to view the share. CIFS share permissions allow for read and write access for the Windows users. What does the administrator need to do in order to allow SMB access?

- A. Mount the volume.
- B. Create a name mapping.
- C. Create an igroup.
- D. Create a quota policy.

Answer: B

Explanation:

When a FlexVol volume is shared using both NFS and SMB, ONTAP must map UNIX user identities to Windows user identities. Creating a name mapping allows ONTAP to translate Linux user credentials to corresponding Windows users, enabling proper permission evaluation and access to the SMB share.

NEW QUESTION # 76

Which NetApp ONTAP service enables external antivirus servers to scan files that are accessed over SMB before they are opened or written?

- A. FPolicy
- B. ARP
- C. WAFL scan
- D. Vscan

Answer: D

Explanation:

Vscan is the ONTAP antivirus service that integrates with external antivirus servers. It scans files accessed over SMB in real time, before they are opened or written, to prevent infected files from being delivered to clients.

NEW QUESTION # 77

After initializing a SnapMirror relationship, hourly NetApp ONTAP Snapshot copies on the source volume are not appearing on the destination. What is causing this behavior?

- A. SnapMirror labels
- B. cluster peering
- C. tamperproof Snapshot copies
- D. SnapMirror throttle

Answer: A

Explanation:

SnapMirror transfers Snapshot copies based on their labels and the SnapMirror policy rules. If the hourly Snapshot copies do not have labels that match the policy, they will not be replicated to the destination after initialization.
