NEW QUESTION # 20

A European bank considers investing in an offshore wind farm project. A bank ESG analyst assists in the origination and execution of green and sustainable finance transactions to finance the project. The analyst recommends a loan to finance the project by gathering related materials on sustainability-linked loans (SLLs), green loans, and corresponding market trends. Which of the following loans is the analyst likely to recommend?

- A. SLL because the total volume of SLLs exceeded that of green loans over the past 5 years.
- B. Green loan because it offers greater flexibility of use than SLLs as green loans do not have loan usage reporting requirements.
- C. Green loan because in contrast to SLLs, green loans are rapidly being adopted by a variety of sectors and tied to numerous KPIs.
- D. SLL because SLL issuance is highly concentrated in renewable energy projects and the power generation sector.

Answer: A
