- A. A building or a portion of a building whose primary function is to house a computer room and its related support areas
- B. A building or a portion of a building where debugging takes place
- C. A building or portion of a building whose primary function is to research new data.
- D. A room in a building dedicated to monitoring data and information.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A building or a portion of a building whose primary function is to house a computer room and its related support areas. A Data Center is a secure, temperature-controlled environment that houses computer systems, equipment, and associated components. It is typically used to store, process, and distribute large amounts of data and information. Data Centers typically include server racks, storage arrays, network switches, firewalls, and other components necessary for the operation of computer systems.

NEW QUESTION # 63

_____ represents the maximum power cable of being drawn by the equipment.

- A. Star rating
- B. Grade rating
- C. Power rating
- D. VA rating

Answer: C

Explanation:

Power rating represents the maximum power that can be drawn by the equipment. It is usually measured in watts (W) or kilowatts (kW) and represents the maximum amount of power that the equipment can consume without causing damage to the device or the power source.

VA rating (Volt-Ampere rating) is a measure of the apparent power in a circuit, which is the product of the voltage and current in the circuit. It is often used to describe the power handling capability of electronic devices and equipment.

Star rating is a rating system used to indicate the energy efficiency of electrical devices and equipment. The rating ranges from 1 to 5 stars, with 5 stars indicating the most energy-efficient device.

Grade rating is a rating system used to indicate the quality of electrical devices and equipment. It is used in different industry and can indicate the quality of electronic component and material used in equipment.
