Box 1: canvas

Both model-driven and canvas apps allow you to easily build business apps. They both share access to the Common Data Service providing standard and custom entities. Canvas apps start with your user experience, crafting a highly tailored interface with the power of a blank canvas and connecting it to 200 data sources.

Canvas apps can be built for web, mobile, and tablet applications. Model-driven apps start with your data model - building up from the shape of your core business data and processes in the Common Data Service to model forms, views, and other components.

Model-driven apps automatically generate great UI that is responsive across devices.

NEW QUESTION # 115

A company uses Power Platform.

You must ensure that users cannot share customer data with other users.

You must also ensure that uses cannot connect to data sources unless you grant the user explicit permissions to access a data source.

You need to recommend solutions to meet the company's security requirements.

Which two types of policies should you recommend? Each correct answer presents part of the solution.

NOTE: Each correct selection is worth one point.

- A. Office cloud policies
- B. environment-level policies
- C. Group Policy Objects
- D. tenant-level policies
- E. preset security policies

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

You can create data loss prevention (DLP) policies that can act as guardrails to help prevent users from unintentionally exposing organizational data. DLP policies can be scoped at the environment level or tenant level, offering flexibility to craft sensible policies that strike the right balance between protection and productivity. For tenant-level policies you can define the scope to be all environments, selected environments, or all environments except ones you specifically exclude. Environment-level policies can be defined for one environment at a time.
