NEW QUESTION # 436
Two routers R1 and R2 are directly connected through an Ethernet link. Both routers are running OSPF over the Ethernet link and OSPF has been registered with BFD. R1 has been set up to transmit BFD at a 50 ms interval, but R2 can receive only at a 100 ms rate due to platform limitations. What does this mean?

- A. Timers renegotiate indefinitely, so the timer exchange phase never converges
- B. R2 sets the P-bit on all BFD control packets until R2 sends a packet with the F-bit set
- C. After the initial timer exchange, R1 sets its transmission rate to the R2 Required Min RX interval
- D. After the initial timer exchange, R2 sets its transmission rate to the R1 Desired Min TX interval

Answer: C

Explanation:
* B (R1 adjusts to R2's Required Min RX):In BFD, each side advertises itsDesired Min TX Interval andRequired Min RX Interval. Each device adjusts its transmission interval to match the remote side's ability to receive packets (Required Min RX). So R1 reduces its transmission rate to 100 ms to match R2's platform limitations.
Other options explained:
* A: R2 does not adjust to R1's Desired Min TX; it's the sender who adapts.
* C: BFD quickly converges after initial negotiation.
* D: P-bit and F-bit are not involved in this specific interval negotiation.

- A. The Chicago administrator should use route filtering to block the 10.1.5.0/24 network from coming in from the LA router.
- B. The LA administrator should use route dampening for the 10.1.5 0/24 network so that it does not get propagated when it flaps up and down.
- C. The LA administrator should use route aggregation to summarize the 10 1 4.0/24, 10 1 5 0/24, 10.1.6.0 /24, and 10 1 7 0/24 networks toward Chicago

Risk is a major determining factor in whether a company chooses to go with a public cloud, a private or a hybrid of both. What are two factors that impact the deceison on which cloud service model to use? (Choose two)

- A. regulation
- B. cross-cloud redundancy
- C. legacy architectures
- D. organization skills
- E. data ownership

Answer: A,C

Explanation:
Legacy architectures influence the choice because existing systems may require specific integration or migration strategies, affecting whether a public, private, or hybrid cloud model is suitable.
Regulation plays a critical role as compliance requirements (data privacy, security standards, industry-specific regulations) can restrict where and how data and workloads are hosted, often favoring private or hybrid clouds for sensitive data.
