

IAPP Certified Information Privacy Professional/China Sample Questions (Q114-Q119):

NEW QUESTION # 114

Which of the following is required to ensure compliance with China's electronic marketing laws?

Response:

- A. Providing opt-out options in all electronic marketing communications
- B. Conducting unsolicited direct marketing calls at any time
- C. Sending marketing emails without prior consent if they include discounts
- D. Sharing customer contact lists with marketing partners without notice

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 115

What type of processing of criminal records would constitute a PIPL violation?

Response:

- A. Publicly disclosing an individual's criminal record without legal justification
- B. Processing records based on user consent for legal compliance
- C. Sharing anonymized data for authorized law enforcement purposes
- D. Retaining records for limited periods as required by law

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 116

Which of the following practices would violate employment-related data protection laws in China?

Response:

- A. Using employee data solely for legally approved purposes
- B. Conducting background checks with the employee's consent
- C. Allowing employees to review their personal records
- D. Monitoring employees' personal communications without consent

Answer: D

NEW QUESTION # 117

Which of the following best describes the material scope of PIPL?

Response:

- A. All personal information processing activities, unless specifically exempted
- B. Any government-mandated data processing within China
- C. Only business-related data processing activities
- D. Only data processing related to national security matters

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 118

Which of the following data processing activities in an employment context would be considered lawful under PIPL?

Response:

- A. Processing employee payroll information as required by labor law
- B. Selling employee contact details to recruitment agencies
- C. Tracking employee movements outside of work hours
- D. Storing employee medical records without consent ezeielkkpz453698.actoblog.com, Disposable vapes