- A. Malicious code
- B. Scans/ Probes/ Attempted Access
- C. Improper usage
- D. Denial-of-Service

Answer: B

Explanation:

According to NIST guidelines, the incident category that includes activities seeking to access or identify a federal agency computer, open ports, protocols, services, or any combination thereof for later exploitation is categorized as 'Scans/Probes/Attempted Access'. This category encompasses any unauthorized attempts to access systems, networks, or data, which may include scanning for vulnerabilities or probing to discover open ports and services.

NEW QUESTION # 272

Which of the following statements are true about security risks? Each correct answer represents a complete solution. Choose three.

- A. They are considered an indicator of threats coupled with vulnerability.
- B. They can be analyzed and measured by the risk analysis process.
- C. They can be mitigated by reviewing and taking responsible actions based on possible risks.
- D. They can be removed completely by taking proper actions.

Answer: A,B,C

Explanation:

In information security, security risks are considered an indicator of threats coupled with vulnerability. In other words, security risk is a probabilistic function of a given threat agent exercising a particular vulnerability and the impact of that risk on the organization. Security risks can be mitigated by reviewing and taking responsible actions based on possible risks. These risks can be analyzed and measured by the risk analysis process. Answer option B is incorrect. Security risks can never be removed completely but can be mitigated by taking proper actions.

NEW QUESTION # 273

John works as an Incident manager for TechWorld Inc. His task is to set up a wireless network for his organization. For this, he needs to decide the appropriate devices and policies required to set up the network.

Which of the following phases of the incident handling process will help him accomplish the task?

- A. Recovery
- B. Eradication
- C. Containment
- D. Preparation

Answer: D

Explanation:

Preparation is the first step in the incident handling process. It includes processes like backing up copies of all key data on a regular basis, monitoring and updating software on a regular basis, and creating and implementing a documented security policy. To apply this step a documented security policy is formulated that outlines the responses to various incidents, as a reliable set of instructions during the time of an incident. The following list contains items that the incident handler should maintain in the preparation phase i.e. before an incident occurs:

- Establish applicable policies
- Build relationships with key players
- Build response kit
- Create incident checklists
- Establish communication plan
- Perform threat modeling
- Build an incident response team
- Practice the demo incidents

Answer option A is incorrect. The Containment phase of the Incident handling process is responsible for supporting and building up the incident combating process. It ensures the stability of the system and also confirms that the incident does not get any worse. The Containment phase includes the process of preventing further contamination of the system or network, and preserving the evidence of the contamination.

Answer option D is incorrect. The Eradication phase of the Incident handling process involves the cleaning-up of the identified harmful incidents from the system. It includes the analyzing of the information that has been gathered for determining how the attack was committed. To prevent the incident from happening again, it is vital to recognize how it was conceded out so that a prevention technique is applied.

Answer option B is incorrect. Recovery is the fifth step of the incident handling process. In this phase, the Incident Handler places the system back into the working environment. In the recovery phase the Incident Handler also works with the questions to validate that the system recovery is successful. This involves testing the system to make sure that all the processes and functions are working normal. The Incident Handler also monitors the system to make sure that the systems are not compromised again. It looks for additional signs of attack.

NEW QUESTION # 274

Mark is monitoring the network traffic on his organization's network. He wants to detect TCP and UDP ping sweeps on his network. Which type of filter will be used to detect this?

- A. tcp.dstport==7 and udp.dstport==7
- B. tcp.dstport==7 and udp.srcport==7
- C. tcp.dstport==7 and udp.srcport==7
- D. tcp.dstport==7 and udp.dstport==7

Answer: C

Explanation:

To detect TCP and UDP ping sweeps, the filter used would be one that checks for packets with a source port of 7, which is commonly associated with the "echo" service used in ping operations. This filter is applied to both TCP and UDP traffic to identify any ping sweeps occurring on those protocols.

References: The answer is based on standard network monitoring practices for detecting ping sweeps, which involve looking for traffic on the echo service port, typically port 71.
