APEGS National Professional Practice Examination (NPPE) Exam NPPE Prüfungsfragen mit Lösungen (Q88-Q93):

88. Frage

All of the following duties are duties of professional engineers and geoscientists to society except the duty to ensure that their work will.

- A. promote the protection of the environment through socially acceptable means
- B. promote the health and safety of the public
- C. achieve maximum benefits for society at large
- D. achieve maximum returns on investment for their employer

Antwort: D

89. Frage

Specific to the Canada Free Trade Agreement (CFTA) applied to professional geoscience or engineering practice in Canada, which of the following statements on the full mobility of professional members is false?

- A. Canadian professional members in good standing who are licensed in one Canadian jurisdiction can be readily licensed in another.
- B. Professionals can work anywhere in Canada with appropriate licensing in the jurisdiction of interest.
- C. Non-Canadian professional members in good standing who are licensed in one Canadian jurisdiction can be readily licensed in another.
- D. Highly experienced licensed professionals can get a single professional licence that permits work in any Canadian jurisdiction.

Antwort: D

Begründung:

Under the CFTA mobility provisions, provincial/territorial regulators must facilitate labour mobility so that a professional licensed in one Canadian jurisdiction can generally obtain licensure in another without being re-assessed for substantially the same requirements, subject to limited exceptions (e.g., good standing, disciplinary status, and administrative steps). This supports A and C: professionals can work across Canada, but they must hold the licence in the jurisdiction where they practise, and licensing transfer/registration should be relatively straightforward for those in good standing. Many regulators also extend mobility processes to internationally trained members who are already licensed in a Canadian jurisdiction (D) because the mobility framework focuses on being licensed in a Canadian jurisdiction and in good standing, not on citizenship.

What is not provided is a single "national" licence that automatically permits practice in every jurisdiction.

Regulation is provincial/territorial, so professionals typically require registration in each jurisdiction where they practise (even if streamlined). Therefore, B is false.

90. Frage

The first four steps of applying the design process to problems are:

1. Generate or proposal alternative solutions or methods to achieve the goal (synthesis)
2. Clearly define the problem to be solved and any constraints that limit the solution
3. Recognize that a problem or need exists and gather Information about It
4. Evaluate the benefits and costs of alternative solutions (analysis).

What is the correct order for applying these steps?

- A. 1, 2, 4, 3
- B. 3, 2, 4, 1
- C. 3, 2, 1, 4
- D. 1, 2, 3, A

Antwort: C

Begründung:

The correct order for applying these steps in the design process begins with recognizing that a problem exists (Step 3), followed by defining the problem and constraints (Step 2), then generating or proposing alternative solutions or methods (Step 1), and finally evaluating the benefits and costs of the alternatives (Step 4). This sequence ensures a structured and thorough approach to problem-solving, from understanding and defining the problem to critically analyzing potential solutions before deciding on the best course of action.

91. Frage

Contracts often stipulate that the contract may be discharged if the professional member determines that:

- A. the contractor has not paid the sub-trades.
- B. the contractor has not complied with the contract requirements.
- C. the working conditions are unsafe.
- D. the owner has not paid the contractor.

Antwort: C

Begründung:

Professional service and construction administration contracts commonly include safety-related clauses that allow the professional to suspend services or treat the contract as discharged/terminated where unsafe conditions exist. NPPE materials emphasize that the duty to the public (including worker safety) is paramount, and professionals must not continue work in circumstances that create unacceptable risk.

Accordingly, contracts often recognize that if site conditions are unsafe—or if the professional is prevented from performing duties safely—the professional may stop work, require corrective action, and potentially terminate the agreement. The other items (A, D) relate mainly to payment disputes among owner/contractor /sub-trades and are typically addressed through payment certification mechanisms, lien processes, or contractual remedies between those parties, not as a standard "professional discharge" trigger. Non-compliance with contract requirements (C) can lead to remedies, notices, and potential termination, but the classic and most directly recognized discharge/suspension trigger for a professional is unsafe working conditions given the overriding safety duty. Therefore, B is best.

92. Frage

Which of the following statements about mediation is false?

- A. Mediation sessions must be attended by a representative of each party.
- B. Mediation provides that if no settlement is reached, all information provided during the proceeding becomes privileged.
- C. Mediation is an assisted negotiation process in which a neutral third party facilitates settlement discussion.
- D. A mediator must meet with both parties together, never with one party in the absence of the other.

Antwort: D

Begründung:

Mediation is a voluntary, assisted negotiation process where a neutral mediator helps parties explore settlement (B). A common mediation practice is "caucusing," where the mediator meets privately with each party separately to discuss interests, options, and settlement ranges; this is often essential to progress.

Therefore, the claim that a mediator must never meet with one party in the absence of the other (C) is false.

Confidentiality is a defining feature of mediation, and discussions are typically treated as "without prejudice," meaning they generally cannot be used later in court if settlement fails (A reflects this concept, though the exact legal privilege can depend on jurisdiction and agreement terms). Attendance by party representatives (D) is generally required in practice so decisions can be made and terms can be negotiated, though the specific form (lawyer, authorized representative, insurer) depends on the dispute and mediation agreement. The key incorrect statement is C because separate meetings are a normal, accepted mediation technique.
