Oracle Database SQL Sample Questions (Q66-Q71):

NEW QUESTION # 66

Which two are true about global temporary tables?

- A. They can be created only by a user with the DBA role, but can be accessed by all users who can create a session.
- B. Their data is always stored in the default temporary tablespace of the user who created them.
- C. If the ON COMMIT clause is session-specific, the table is dropped when the session is terminated.
- D. If the ON COMMIT clause is transaction-specific, all rows in the table are deleted after each COMMIT or ROLLBACK.
- E. Backup and recovery operations are available for these tables.
- F. Indexes can be created on them.

Answer: D,F

Explanation:

E). True. Indexes can be created on global temporary tables just like they can on permanent tables. The indexes on global temporary tables are also temporary and only exist for the duration of the session or transaction, based on how the table was defined.

F). True. If the ON COMMIT clause is specified as DELETE ROWS, then all rows in the global temporary table are deleted after each COMMIT or ROLLBACK within the transaction. This clause defines the scope of the data's persistence within the global temporary table.

NEW QUESTION # 67

Examine the description of the EMPLOYEES table:

Name	Null?	Type
EMPLOYEE ID	NOT NULL	NUMBER (4)
LAST NAME	NOT NULL	VARCHAR2 (100)
SALARY	NOT NULL	NUMBER (6,2)
DEPARTMENT_ID	NOT NULL	NUMBER(4)

Examine this query:

```
1 SELECT e.last_name,
2        e.salary,
3        a.avg_sal
4        FROM employees e
5 WHERE e.salary > (SELECT AVG (a.salary) AS avg__sal
6                  FROM employees a
7                  WHERE a.department_1d = e.department_1d)
8 ORDER BY e.last_name;
```

Which line produces an error?

- A. Line 7
- B. Line 3
- C. Line 5

- D. Line 8

Answer: B

Explanation:

In the provided SQL query, the issue arises from the alias 'a.avg_sal' which is defined in the subquery but is being referenced in the SELECT list of the outer query. This is not permitted in SQL as the scope of the alias defined in the subquery is only within that subquery.

Here is the breakdown of the code and the error:

* Line 1: Correct syntax for initiating a SELECT statement.

* Line 2: Refers to 'e.salary', which is a correct reference to the 'salary' column using alias 'e' for the employees table.

* Line 3: 'a.avg_sal' attempts to reference an alias that is defined in the subquery within the outer query, which is not allowed. This is because 'avg_sal' is defined in the subquery's SELECT list and cannot be referenced outside of it. The correct way to include the average salary from the subquery in the SELECT list of the main query would be to repeat the subquery or to use a join that includes the average salary.

* Line 5-7: The subquery itself is correctly formed; it computes the average salary for the same department.

* Line 8: The ORDER BY clause is properly referencing 'e.last_name', which is defined in the outer query.

Therefore, the error occurs at Line 3 where 'a.avg_sal' is not a valid reference in the SELECT list of the main query because it is defined in the subquery.

The rules of scope for aliases in subqueries are specified in the Oracle Database SQL Language Reference 12c documentation. Subquery aliases cannot be referenced outside their subquery.
