NEW QUESTION # 53

How does Data Cloud handle an individual's Right to be Forgotten?

- A. Deletes the specified Individual record and its Unified Individual Link record.
- B. Deletes the records from all data source objects, and any downstream data model objects are updated at the next scheduled ingestion
- C. Deletes the specified Individual and records from any data model object/data lake object related to the Individual.
- D. Deletes the specified Individual and records from any data source object mapped to the Individual data model object.

Answer: C

Explanation:

Data Cloud handles an individual's Right to be Forgotten by deleting the specified Individual and records from any data model object/data lake object related to the Individual. This means that Data Cloud removes all the data associated with the individual from the data space, including the data from the source objects, the unified individual profile, and any related objects. Data Cloud also deletes the Unified Individual Link record that links the individual to the source records. Data Cloud uses the Consent API to process the Right to be Forgotten requests, which are reprocessed at 30, 60, and 90 days to ensure a full deletion.

The other options are not correct descriptions of how Data Cloud handles an individual's Right to be Forgotten. Data Cloud does not delete the records from all data source objects, as this would affect the data integrity and availability of the source systems. Data Cloud also does not delete only the specified Individual record and its Unified Individual Link record, as this would leave the source records and the related records intact. Data Cloud also does not delete only the specified Individual and records from any data source object mapped to the Individual data model object, as this would leave the related records intact.

NEW QUESTION # 54

A user needs permissions to access Data Cloud to create, manage, and publish segments. However, the user should not be allowed to create reports or manage data sources. Which permission set should an administrator assign?

- A. Customer Data Cloud for Marketing Specialist
- B. Customer Data Cloud for Marketing Admin
- C. Customer Data Cloud for Marketing Manager
- D. Customer Data Cloud for Marketing Data Aware Specialist

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

This permission set should be assigned to a user who needs permissions to access Data Cloud to create, manage, and publish segments, but not to create reports or manage data sources. This permission set allows the user to create and edit segments, calculated insights, streaming insights, and activations, but not to access data streams, data model, identity resolution, or reports.

NEW QUESTION # 55

How can a consultant modify attribute names to match a naming convention in Cloud File Storage targets?

- A. Update attribute names in the data stream configuration.
- B. Use a formula field to update the field name in an activation.

- C. Update field names in the data model object.
- D. Set preferred attribute names when configuring activation.

Answer: D

Explanation:

A Cloud File Storage target is a type of data action target in Data Cloud that allows sending data to a cloud storage service such as Amazon S3 or Google Cloud Storage. When configuring an activation to a Cloud File Storage target, a consultant can modify the attribute names to match a naming convention by setting preferred attribute names in Data Cloud. Preferred attribute names are aliases that can be used to control the field names in the target file. They can be set for each attribute in the activation configuration, and they will override the default field names from the data model object. The other options are incorrect because they do not affect the field names in the target file. Using a formula field to update the field name in an activation will not change the field name, but only the field value. Updating attribute names in the data stream configuration will not affect the existing data lake objects or data model objects. Updating field names in the data model object will change the field names for all data sources and activations that use the object, which may not be desirable or consistent.
