NEW QUESTION # 62

Your organization needs an approval application for purchases where a user can enter information on the purchase required and then submit it for management approval. You need to suggest a solution to create the application that must be available on both the web and mobile devices. Your organization does not have software developers or the budget to hire a third party. What should you do?

- A. Suggest the organization use AppSheet to create the application.
- B. Suggest that the organization continue to approve requests manually until budget is available to use a third-party application provider.
- C. Suggest that the organization use AppScript to create forms linked to a Google Sheet to store the purchase data.
- D. Suggest that the organization develop an application internally with a database, a backend service for data retrieval, and a frontend service for the application's user interface.

Answer: A

Explanation:

AppSheet is a no-code platform that allows users to create custom applications without the need for software development skills. It is capable of building applications that can be used both on the web and mobile devices. AppSheet would allow the organization to create the approval application efficiently, meeting the requirements of the purchase process, and would be a cost-effective solution that does not require hiring developers or using a third-party application provider.

NEW QUESTION # 63

Your organization is concerned about unauthorized access attempts. You want to implement a security measure that makes users change their password if there are twenty or more failed login attempts within one hour. You want to use the most effective and efficient approach. What should you do?

- A. Create an activity rule for live-state data sources that meets the required time period and threshold to identify users who need to change their password.
- B. Create an activity rule for user log events, define a time period and threshold, and select an Action for the rule to force a password change.
- C. Enable email alerts to notify users that they need to change their password.
- D. Set up a Chrome action rule to restrict users from defined ChromeOS actions after twenty failed password attempts.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Creating an activity rule for user log events allows you to monitor failed login attempts within a specific time period (such as one hour) and set a threshold (like twenty attempts). This rule can automatically trigger an action, such as forcing a password change, when the defined threshold is met. This is the most effective and efficient approach to addressing unauthorized access attempts while ensuring that security measures are enforced without manual intervention.

NEW QUESTION # 64

You work at a large organization that prohibits employees from using Google Sites. However, a task force comprised of three people from five different departments has recently been formed to work on a project assigned by the Office of the CIO. You need to allow the users in this task force to temporarily use Google Sites. You want to use the least disruptive and most efficient approach. What should you do?

- A. Place the 15 task force users into a new organizational unit (OU). Turn on Google Sites access for the OU.
- B. Turn Google Sites access on for each of the 15 users in the task force.
- C. Create a configuration group for the task force's 15 users. Grant Google Sites access to the group.
- D. Create an access group for the task force's 15 users. Grant Google Sites access to the group.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Creating a new organizational unit (OU) for the task force members and turning on Google Sites access for that OU is the least disruptive and most efficient approach. It allows you to target only the users in the task force, granting them temporary access to Google Sites without impacting the rest of the organization. This solution also provides clear control over the access, which can be easily modified when the task force's work is completed.

NEW QUESTION # 65

Your company handles sensitive client data and needs to maintain a high level of security to comply with strict industry regulations. You need to allow your company's security team to investigate potential security breaches by using the security investigation tool in the Google Admin console.

What should you do?

- A. Create an activity rule that triggers email notifications to the security team whenever a high-risk security event occurs.
- B. Assign the super admin role to the security team
- C. Create an administrator role with Security Center access. Assign the role to the security team
- D. Assign the User Management Admin role to the security team

Answer: C

Explanation:

To allow the security team to investigate potential security breaches using the security investigation tool, you should create a custom administrator role with Security Center access. This role will provide the security team with the necessary permissions to access and use the security investigation tool without granting them unnecessary permissions, such as those associated with User Management or Super Admin roles. This approach ensures both security and compliance with industry regulations.

NEW QUESTION # 66

Your organization has a Shared Drive with 150 users organized as a group. All users of the group need to be able to add and edit files, but the ability to move, delete, and share content must be limited to a single user. You need to configure the shared drive to meet these requirements efficiently.

What should you do?

Your organization has a Shared Drive with 150 users organized as a group. All users of the group need to be able to add and edit files, but the ability to move, delete, and share content must be limited to a single user. You need to configure the shared drive to meet these requirements efficiently.

What should you do?

- A. Create a folder inside the shared drive. Share the files with the group by using the share function.
- B. In the Admin console, assign Contributor access for the shared drive to the group. Assign Content Manager access for the shared drive to the single user.
- C. In the Admin console, assign Contributor access for the shared drive to each user. Assign Content Manager access for the shared drive to the single user.
- D. Create a folder inside the shared drive. Share the folder link with the group.

Answer: B

Explanation:

By assigning Contributor access to the group, all 150 users will be able to add and edit files in the shared drive. Assigning Content Manager access to the single user ensures that only that person has the ability to move, delete, and share content within the shared drive. This approach efficiently meets the requirement of limiting certain administrative privileges while allowing the group to collaborate on content.
