VMware Cloud Management and Automation Advanced Design Sample Questions (Q187-Q192):

NEW QUESTION # 187
Following a design review meeting with a customer, a cloud architect needs to update an existing VMware Aria Automation design to address changes in requirements.
The new requirements state:
* The solution must continue to operate in the event of a single node failure.
* The corporate encryption standard requires all solutions to encrypt data in transit using revocable certificates.
Which two design decision should the architect make to meet the new requirements? (Choose two.)

- A. The solution will use CA-signed certificates.
- B. The solution will deploy three VMware Aria Automation nodes configured within a cluster using a DNS CNAME.
- C. The solution will use Self-Signed certificates.
- D. The solution will deploy three VMware Aria Automation nodes configured within a cluster using an external load balancer.
- E. The solution will deploy three VMware Aria Automation nodes configured within a cluster using an integrated load balancer.

Answer: A,D

Explanation:
A three-node clustered deployment with an external load balancer ensures high availability, allowing the solution to continue operating if a single node fails. CA-signed certificates provide encrypted data in transit and can be revoked per corporate security standards, meeting the encryption requirement.

NEW QUESTION # 188
Which design decision should an architect make to support continuous availability in vRealize Operations?

- A. Each Fault Domain should consist of primary, witness and remote collector nodes.
- B. The vROps cluster should be separated into two Fault Domains.
- C. The vROps cluster should be separated into three Fault Domains.
- D. Each Fault Domain should contain only remote collector nodes.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 189
A customer will use their vRealize Automation solution to provision and manage both production and development workloads.
During workshops, the customer has communicated the following information about the environment:
- The production and development workloads are deployed to separate vCenter Servers.
- Three different user groups have been identified for access to the solution: Application Developers, Application Owners, and Infrastructure Operators.
The customer has communicated the following requirements:
- Only Application Owners and Infrastructure Operators may be permitted to deploy production workloads.
- A limit should be applied to the number of development workloads concurrently deployed by each user type. Application Owners must not be able to view or modify another user's deployment(s).
In addition to the creation of separate Production and Development Cloud Zones, which three design decisions meet the requirements? (Choose three.)

- A. Define an instance limit for projects using the development Cloud Zone.
- B. Define a Cloud Assembly project for production and another for development.
- C. Define a Cloud Assembly project for each user group.
- D. Define a priority of 0 for the production Cloud Zone in the project used by Application Developers.
- E. The deployment sharing option should be turned off for the Application Owners project.
- F. Add the Application Owners and Infrastructure Operators groups to the production project.

Answer: A,B,F

NEW QUESTION # 190
What role is responsible for defining and managing policies within vRealize Automation?

- A. Fabric Administrator
- B. Business Group Manager
- C. Infrastructure Architect
- D. Tenant Administrator

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION # 191
An architect is designing a VMware Aria Cloud Management solution. During the requirements gathering workshop with the customer, the following comments were recorded:
Access to all cloud management tooling must be controlled and audited.
The solution must comply with the company's ISO 27001 compliance standard.
When creating the design documentation, which design quality should be used to classify the requirements?

- A. Performance
- B. Availability
- C. Manageability
- D. Security

Answer: D

Explanation:
Requirements related to access control, auditing, and compliance standards (such as ISO 27001) fall under the design quality of Security.
