NEW QUESTION # 111

What should you create to prevent spoofing of the internal network?

- A. A DNS record
- B. A NAT rule
- C. An ACL
- D. A record in the host file

Answer: C

Explanation:

The CCST Cybersecurity Study Guide states that Access Control Lists (ACLs) can be used to filter traffic based on IP addresses and block packets that appear to originate from the internal network but arrive from external interfaces (IP spoofing).

"ACLs can prevent spoofing by dropping traffic from external sources that claim to have an internal source address. Configuring ACLs on the perimeter firewall or router is a common countermeasure for IP spoofing." (CCST Cybersecurity, Basic Network Security Concepts, ACLs and Traffic Filtering section, Cisco Networking Academy) A (NAT rule) changes IP addresses but does not inherently prevent spoofing.

B (ACL) is correct because it can enforce anti-spoofing filters.

C (host file) only affects name resolution locally.

D (DNS record) is for domain mapping, not spoofing prevention.

NEW QUESTION # 112

Which protocol is commonly used for remote user authentication and authorization?

- A. LDAP
- B. RADIUS
- C. TACACS+
- D. SSH

Answer: B

Explanation:

RADIUS (Remote Authentication Dial-In User Service) is a widely-used protocol for remote user authentication and authorization. It provides centralized authentication, authorization, and accounting management for users who dial in or connect remotely to a network. RADIUS uses a client-server model where the client (network access server) forwards user authentication requests to the RADIUS server for validation.

NEW QUESTION # 113

Which encryption method uses two different keys, a public key and a private key?

- A. Hashing
- B. Symmetric encryption
- C. Asymmetric encryption
- D. SSL/TLS

Answer: C

Explanation:

Asymmetric encryption, also known as public-key encryption, uses two different keys: a public key for encryption and a private key for decryption. The public key can be freely distributed, allowing anyone to encrypt messages that only the recipient with the corresponding private key can decrypt. This method is commonly used for secure communication and establishing secure connections.

NEW QUESTION # 114

What is the main benefit of implementing SOAR technology in monitoring network data for security incidents?

- A. Reduced network bandwidth consumption
- B. Increased network availability
- C. Improved incident response time
- D. Enhanced network performance

Answer: C

Explanation:

SOAR (Security Orchestration, Automation, and Response) technology aims to streamline and automate incident response processes. By integrating various security tools, SOAR enables a faster and more organized response to security incidents. It automates manual tasks, provides real-time incident metrics and visibility, and facilitates collaboration among different teams involved in incident response. Ultimately, implementing SOAR can significantly improve incident response time.

NEW QUESTION # 115

What is the purpose of a firewall in endpoint security?

- A. Encrypt the data transmitted between the endpoint and the network
- B. Monitor and detect suspicious activities on the endpoint
- C. Protect the endpoint from malware
- D. Prevent unauthorized access to the endpoint

Answer: D

Explanation:

Firewalls are a key component of endpoint security as they help prevent unauthorized access to the endpoint. Firewalls work by examining incoming and outgoing network traffic and applying a set of rules to allow or block specific connections. By filtering and monitoring network traffic, firewalls act as a barrier between the endpoint and potential threats, such as hackers or unauthorized users, ensuring only authorized and secure connections are established.
