CSI Canadian Securities Course Exam2 Sample Questions (Q79-Q84):

NEW QUESTION # 79

Which regulatory body is responsible for the surveillance of trading and market-related activities of participants on Canadian equity marketplaces?

- A. OSFI
- B. OBSI
- C. CIRO
- D. CSA

Answer: C

Explanation:

The Canadian Investment Regulatory Organization (CIRO) is responsible for overseeing trading and market-related activities of participants on Canadian equity marketplaces. CIRO conducts surveillance to ensure compliance with rules, regulations, and fair market practices.

Other options:

* OBSI (Ombudsman for Banking Services and Investments): Handles disputes between financial institutions and their clients but does not conduct trading surveillance.

* OSFI (Office of the Superintendent of Financial Institutions): Regulates and supervises federally regulated financial institutions, focusing on their solvency.

* CSA (Canadian Securities Administrators): Coordinates securities regulation across Canada but does not directly monitor trading activities.

References:

* Volume 1, Chapter 3: The Canadian Regulatory Environment, section on "Market Surveillance and Trading Oversight" explains CIRO's role.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION # 83

What market condition is typically evident during the late contraction to end of contraction phases?

- A. Stock prices fall.
- B. Tight monetary policy
- C. Inverter yield curve.
- D. Interest rates fall

Answer: D

Explanation:

During the late contraction to the end of contraction phase in the business cycle, the economy typically begins to show early signs of recovery, leading to shifts in monetary policy and interest rate trends. This period is marked by declining interest rates. Here's a breakdown of the conditions evident in this phase:

* Economic Context:

* As the economy contracts, unemployment may still be relatively high, consumer and business confidence is weak, and production is below potential output. These conditions prompt monetary authorities to adopt accommodative policies.

* The central bank, such as the Bank of Canada, reduces interest rates to stimulate borrowing, investment, and spending, aiding in economic recovery.

* Interest Rate Dynamics:

* Falling interest rates are a hallmark of the late contraction phase. These declines occur as central banks aim to provide economic support and lower the cost of capital.

* Lower interest rates tend to support a recovery in equity markets and encourage investment activity, setting the stage for the next phase of growth.

* Yield Curve Observation:

* During this phase, the yield curve, which may have inverted during earlier contraction stages, starts to steepen. This steepening is indicative of improving economic expectations.

* Elimination of Tight Monetary Policies:

* Tight monetary policies, which involve high interest rates to curb inflation, are generally not present in this phase. Instead, monetary easing is observed.

References to Study Documents:

* Canadian Securities Course Volume 2, Chapter 13, "Fundamental and Technical Analysis," discusses the business cycle and its implications on market conditions.

* Volume 1, Chapter 4, "Overview of Economics," explains how interest rates influence the economy and describes their behavior during different phases of the business cycle.
