NEW QUESTION # 90

How many frames make up the Group Key Handshake excluding any Ack frames that may be required?

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3

Answer: A

Explanation:

The Group Key Handshake consists of two frames excluding any Ack frames that may be required. The Group Key Handshake is used to distribute and update the Group Temporal Key (GTK) for encrypting broadcast and multicast traffic. The AP initiates the Group Key Handshake by sending a Group Key Message

1 frame to a STA, which contains the new GTK and other information. The STA responds with a Group Key Message 2 frame to the AP, which confirms the receipt of the GTK and other information. After this, both the AP and the STA can use the new GTK for encryption and decryption of broadcast and multicast traffic .

NEW QUESTION # 91

Where would you look in a packet trace file to identify the configured Minimum Basic Rate (MBR) of a BSS?

- A. Supported Rates & Extended Supported Rates elements in a Beacon frame
- B. In the MBR Information Element in an Association Response frame
- C. In the Minimum Basic Rate Element in a Beacon frame
- D. In the MBR Action frame

Answer: A

Explanation:

The configured Minimum Basic Rate (MBR) of a BSS can be identified by looking at the Supported Rates and Extended Supported Rates elements in a Beacon frame. A Beacon frame is a type of management frame that is transmitted by an AP to advertise its presence and capabilities to potential clients. A Beacon frame contains various information elements (IEs) that provide details about the BSS configuration and operation.

The Supported Rates and Extended Supported Rates IEs list the data rates that are supported by the AP for data transmission. The MBR is the lowest data rate among these supported rates that is required for all clients to join and communicate with the BSS. The MBR is usually marked with a flag bit in these IEs to indicate its mandatory status. The other options are not correct, as they do not exist or do not indicate the MBR of a BSS. NEW QUESTION # 92

When configuring a long-term, forensic packet capture and saving all packets to disk which of the following is not a consideration?

- A. Individual trace file size
- B. Real-time packet decodes

- C. Analyzer location
- D. Total capture storage space

Answer: B

Explanation:

Real-time packet decodes are not a consideration when configuring a long-term, forensic packet capture and saving all packets to disk. Real-time packet decodes are useful for live analysis and troubleshooting, but they consume CPU and memory resources that could affect the performance of the capture process. For a long-term, forensic packet capture, it is more important to consider the analyzer location, the total capture storage space, and the individual trace file size. These factors affect the quality and quantity of the captured packets and the ease of post-capture analysis³⁴ References:
