Esri Enterprise Administration Professional 2201 Sample Questions (Q64-Q69):

NEW QUESTION # 64
Portal for ArcGIS is running in a Windows environment.
Which type of account is recommended to run the Portal for ArcGIS service?

- A. Built-in system account
- B. Group-managed service account
- C. Local machine administrator account

- D. Windows Active Directory domain account

Answer: B

Explanation:
Esri recommends using aGroup Managed Service Account (gMSA)to run Portal for ArcGIS services in Windows environments.
gMSAsautomatically manage passwords, align withActive Directory policies, and areideal for enterprise-scale deployments.
From Esri documentation:
"Using a group managed service account (gMSA) to run Portal for ArcGIS services improves security by allowing Windows to manage the password, reducing administrative overhead while meeting enterprise security requirements."
* OptionB(regular AD account) is acceptable butrequires manual password updates.
* OptionCandDare not secure or scalable for enterprise environments.

NEW QUESTION # 65
After upgrading, a GIS administrator tries to log in to Portal for ArcGIS using admin credentials. The portal site doesn't display correctly and an error is shown. Login fails.
What should the administrator do?

- A. Reinstall the ArcGIS Web Adaptor
- B. Roll back the upgrade
- C. Run portalscan.py
- D. Clear the browser's cache

Answer: D

Explanation:
After an upgrade, Portal for ArcGIS often changes web elements, scripts, and cached content. If the browser is usingold cached files, the portal page may not render correctly, and authentication may fail.Clearing the browser cacheensures that new files are loaded.
From Esri documentation:
"After upgrading ArcGIS Enterprise, clear the browser's cache to ensure that all updated components and scripts are loaded properly."
* OptionAis a diagnostic tool, not a fix.
* OptionBmay be excessive if the issue is simply browser cache.
* OptionDis not a standard troubleshooting step.

NEW QUESTION # 66
An ArcGIS Pro user receives the following error when trying to publish to ArcGIS Enterprise:
"Unable to publish to ArcGIS Server, error 001369: failed to create service" The ArcGIS Server logs reveal:
* Failed to create service
* Internal server error
* Unable to instantiate class for XML schema type
* Invalid XML registry file
* 390 ArcSOC processes running
* Server uses only half of available RAM
Which action should the administrator perform?

- A. Increase the non-interactive desktop heap size
- B. Use more dedicated instances instead of shared
- C. Scale up the ArcGIS Server machine resources

Answer: B

Explanation:
This issue is consistent with desktop heap exhaustion, especially when a high number of ArcSOC processes (e.g., 390) are running on Windows. Desktop heap is a limited memory resource used for GUI and system object management. When it runs out, services can fail to start and produce XML-related errors.

Increasing the non-interactive desktop heap size in the Windows registry resolves this.

From Esri documentation:

"If the Windows desktop heap size is too low, ArcGIS Server may be unable to create new processes (ArcSOC), causing service failures and related internal server errors."

* Option B is a generic fix and won't address the specific heap exhaustion issue.

* Option C doesn't help if the root issue is OS-level heap size limits.

NEW QUESTION # 67

A GIS administrator works for the Department of Transportation. Users need to analyzedecades of traffic and crash data to determine the interstates with the most incidents. They will also analyze when certain vehicles were speeding and braking, and then correlate this data with vehicular accident locations.

Which server must be configured to support this workflow?

- A. Notebook Server
- B. GeoEvent Server
- C. GeoAnalytics Server

Answer: C

Explanation:

ArcGIS GeoAnalytics Server is designed to perform distributed analysis on large volumes of spatial and temporal data. It is particularly suited for workflows that involve analyzing patterns over time and space, such as identifying interstates with the most incidents over decades and correlating vehicle behavior (like speeding and braking) with accident locations.

GeoAnalytics Server provides tools for aggregating data, detecting incidents, and reconstructing tracks, which are essential for understanding complex transportation datasets. Its distributed computing framework allows for efficient processing of big data, making it the appropriate choice for the described workflow.

GeoEvent Server (Option B) is primarily used for real-time data processing and event detection, which is not the focus of this analysis. Notebook Server (Option C) supports interactive data science and analysis workflows using Jupyter notebooks but does not provide the same level of performance and scalability for big data analysis as GeoAnalytics Server.

NEW QUESTION # 68

An ArcGIS analyst is curating a series of basemaps for field crews editing utility infrastructure in the field.

The analyst must ensure optimal performance.

Which type of service should be published?

- A. Cached map service
- B. Dynamic map service
- C. Vector tile service

Answer: A

Explanation:

For field operations, Vector Tile Services are highly efficient and suitable for basemaps. They offer fast rendering, smaller file sizes, and are easily scalable across various devices, including those with limited bandwidth or processing capabilities. Vector tiles also support dynamic styling and are ideal for offline use, which is often necessary for field crews working in areas with limited connectivity.

Cached map services (Option A) are raster-based and can be larger in size, making them less optimal for mobile use. Dynamic map services (Option C) require real-time data rendering, which can be resource- intensive and may not perform well in field conditions with limited connectivity.
