NEW QUESTION # 66

The design team at Cloud Kicks is in the early stages of exploring an idea for a wearable device to track customers activity during workouts.

They employ footwear designers and manufacturing experts, but they lack an engineer experienced in consumer hardware, What should the strategy designer do to determine whether or not to pursue this product idea?

- A. Conduct an expert interview in consumer device engineering.
- B. Hire an engineer with experience in consumer devices.
- C. Perform secondary research on common hardware issues.

Answer: A

Explanation:

The strategy designer should conduct an expert interview in consumer device engineering to determine whether or not to pursue this product idea. An expert interview is a way to gather information and insights from someone who has specialized knowledge or experience in a relevant domain. It can help validate assumptions, identify risks, and explore opportunities for innovation. Performing secondary research may not provide enough depth or specificity for this product idea. Hiring an engineer may be premature and costly at this stage.

NEW QUESTION # 67

A strategy designer is facilitating a critique on a concept for their company's new loyalty program, and they're getting a lot of subjective feedback representing personal opinions.

What is the most common reason for this, assuming good intent from all participants?

- A. The critique does not have the right participants in the room; there are too many dominant personalities.
- B. The designer has not properly defined the guidelines for the critique session.
- C. The non-designers do not have the skills needed to give effective critique on design work.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Subjective feedback often occurs when the parameters of a critique are not clearly established. Providing clear guidelines helps participants understand the context, objectives, and specific areas where feedback is needed, focusing the discussion on constructive and objective observations rather than personal preferences.

NEW QUESTION # 68

A strategy designer is leading a project to reimagine in-app communication form. The CIO is a key decision maker but appears to be neutral-and even, at times, a detractor to the project.

What should the designer do to gain their alignment?

- A. Ask the sponsor to speak to the CIO on behalf of the project and explain how it meets team needs.
- B. Set up a conversation with the CIO to name the challenge and listen to their objections
- C. Email the stakeholders reiterating project status and asking for any objections to the approach.

Answer: B

Explanation:

The best way to gain alignment from a key decision maker who is neutral or detracting from a project is to set up a conversation with them to name the challenge and listen to their objections, as this shows respect and empathy and allows for mutual understanding and feedback. Asking the sponsor to speak to them on behalf of the project or emailing them reiterating project status may not address their concerns or motivations effectively.
