Cyber AB Certified CMMC Professional (CCP) Exam Sample Questions (Q88-Q93):

NEW QUESTION # 88
A machining company has been awarded a contract with the DoD to build specialized parts. Testing of the parts will be done by the company using in-house staff and equipment. For a Level 1 Self-Assessment, what type of asset is this?

- A. CUI Asset
- B. In-scope Asset
- C. Contractor Risk Managed Asset
- D. Specialized Asset

Answer: B

Explanation:
This question deals with asset categorization during a CMMC Level 1 Self-Assessment. The organization is manufacturing specialized parts for the DoD, but Level 1 of CMMC only concerns Federal Contract Information (FCI)-not Controlled Unclassified Information (CUI). Therefore, asset categorization should follow the CMMC Scoping Guidance for Level 1.
#Step 1: Understand CMMC Level 1 and FCI
* Level 1 Objective:
* Implement basic safeguarding requirements as per FAR 52.204-21.
* Applies to systems that store, process, or transmit FCI.
* Self-assessments are permitted and required annually.
Source Reference:
CMMC Scoping Guidance - Level 1 (v1.0)
https://dodcio.defense.gov/CMMC
#Step 2: What is an "In-scope Asset"?
CMMC Scoping Guidance - Level 1 defines In-scope assets as:
"Assets that process, store, or transmit FCI or provide security protection for such assets."
* In this scenario:

* The machining company isperforming contract work(manufacturing DoD parts).
* Thetesting is done internally, implying the systems and equipment used in testing and documentation aredirectly supporting the contract.
* These systems likely handleFCIsuch as technical specifications, purchase orders, or test reports.
##Therefore, the equipment and systems used in testing are consideredIn-scope Assetsunder Level 1.
#Why the Other Options Are Incorrect
A: CUI Asset
#Incorrect forLevel 1:
* CUI is only in scope atCMMC Level 2 and Level 3.
* Level 1 is concerned withFCI, not CUI.
C: Specialized Asset
#Incorrect definition:
* Specialized assets(defined inCMMC Level 2 Scoping) include IoT, OT, ICS, GFE, and similar types of non-enterprise assets that may require alternative treatment.
* This classification isnot used in Level 1 Scoping.
D: Contractor Risk Managed Asset
#Incorrect:
* Also defined underCMMC Level 2 Scopingonly.
* These are assets that are not security-protected but are managed via risk-based decisions.
* This term isnot applicableforCMMC Level 1 assessments.
#Step 3: Alignment with Official Documentation
According to theCMMC Scoping Guidance for Level 1:
"The assets within the self-assessment scope are those that process, store, or transmit FCI. These assets are considered 'in-scope.'"
No other asset categorization (such as CUI asset, specialized asset, or contractor risk managed asset) is used at Level 1.
BLUF (Bottom Line Up Front):
For aCMMC Level 1 Self-Assessment, theonlyasset category officially recognized is theIn-scope Asset- any asset that handles or protects FCI. Since the company's internal testing operations are part of fulfilling the DoD contract, the systems and staff involved arein scope.
