Proofpoint Certified Threat Protection Analyst Exam Sample Questions (Q17-Q22):

NEW QUESTION # 17

What happens when a user clicks a rewritten URL that TAP URL Defense has determined to be malicious?

- A. The link opens normally and the site remains accessible.
- B. The user is shown a warning page and the site is blocked.
- C. The system delivers a separate email alert to the user.
- D. The user is redirected to the organization's homepage.

Answer: B

Explanation:

Proofpoint TAP URL Defense rewrites URLs to route clicks through Proofpoint's time-of-click analysis service. If the destination is determined malicious at click time, the user is presented with a block/warning page and access is denied (A). This is a core containment mechanism because URL reputation can change after delivery: a link that looked benign during initial scanning may become weaponized later (compromised site, delayed redirect, newly hosted phishing kit). The warning page both prevents compromise and provides user feedback that a threat was intercepted. For IR responders, this behavior is also valuable telemetry: TAP records click events, verdicts, and whether clicks were blocked or permitted, which drives scoping and prioritization (Impacted users vs At Risk). In recovery, blocked clicks reduce the likelihood that credential resets or endpoint remediation are needed, but analysts still validate whether any earlier clicks occurred before condemnation, whether users accessed the URL outside protected paths (copy/paste, mobile clients), and whether campaign-wide remediation (blocklisting domains, pulling emails) is necessary to prevent repeat attempts.

NEW QUESTION # 18

Which two items should be included in an incident report to be discussed during a post-incident debrief?
(Select two.)

- A. Product manuals
- B. Devices and systems involved
- C. Speculation about adversary attribution
- D. Incident timeline
- E. Software inventory

Answer: B,D

Explanation:

Post-incident debriefs require evidence-backed documentation that enables learning and control improvements. The two most essential items are the incident timeline (D) and the devices/systems involved (E). The timeline reconstructs key events (first delivery, first click, first alert, containment actions, TRAP pulls, credential resets, policy changes) and supports measurable IR metrics (MTTD, MTTR). The "devices and systems involved" section defines scope and blast radius: which mailboxes were targeted, which users were impacted, what email systems were involved (gateway, cloud mail, endpoints), and which Proofpoint components contributed (TAP verdicts, URL Defense click logs, Smart Search traces, TRAP remediation).

This information is the foundation for root cause analysis and for validating that remediation fully covered the environment (no missed recipients, no unremediated copies, no lingering compromised accounts). Software inventories and product manuals are generally not debrief deliverables, and adversary attribution speculation is discouraged unless it is evidence-based and necessary for risk decisions. Proofpoint IR best practice is factual, actionable reporting that directly drives preventive control changes.

NEW QUESTION # 19

An attacker registers a domain like "great-company.com" to impersonate "greatcompany.com." What tactic is being used?

- A. Display Name Spoofing
- B. Domain Hijacking
- C. Lookalike Domain
- D. Subdomain Takeover

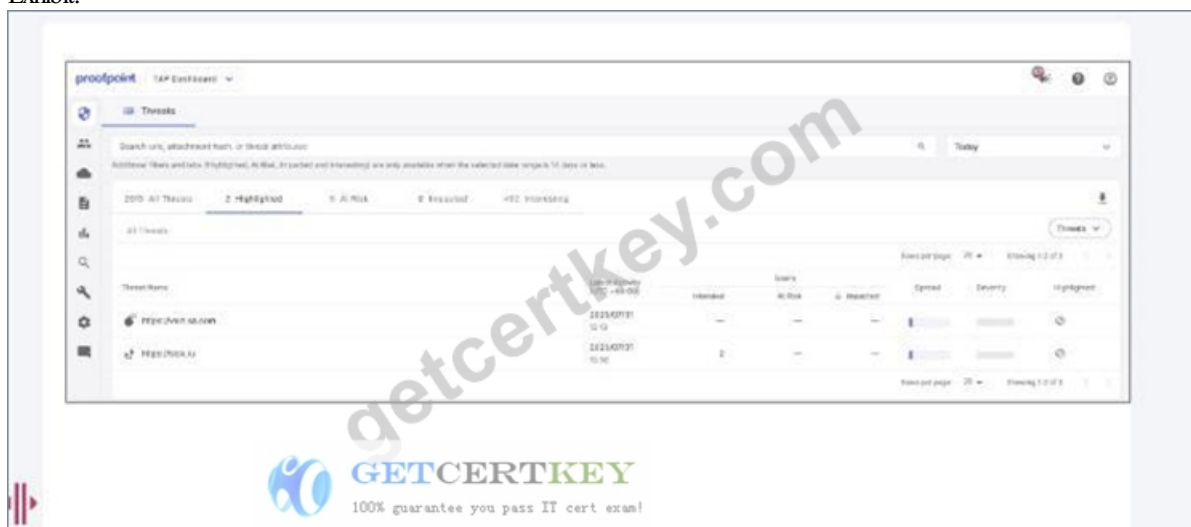

Answer: C

Explanation:

This is a lookalike-domain tactic (C), where the attacker registers a visually similar domain to impersonate a legitimate brand. The deception relies on human pattern recognition: inserting hyphens, swapping characters, or using similar-looking TLDs so recipients perceive the domain as legitimate. In Proofpoint investigations, analysts validate lookalike domains by checking domain age (newly registered), WHOIS/registrar patterns where available, sending infrastructure (new IP ranges, mismatched rDNS), and authentication misalignment (SPF/DKIM/DMARC failures or lack of alignment). Lookalike domains are common in BEC and credential phishing: they enable "near-perfect" spoofing without compromising the real domain. This differs from domain hijacking (compromising a legitimate domain), display-name spoofing (only the visible name is faked), and subdomain takeover (taking control of an orphaned DNS record). For response, analysts often add the lookalike domain to blocklists, tune impostor detection policies, alert targeted recipients, and strengthen DMARC enforcement and brand monitoring to reduce future impersonation success.

NEW QUESTION # 20

Exhibit:

What is indicated by the icon shown in the "Highlighted" column?

- A. The threat has been reported as a false negative.
- B. The threat has been cleared and considered safe.
- C. The threat has been added to a custom blocklist.
- D. The threat has been reported as a false positive.

Answer: D

Explanation:

In the TAP Dashboard, the "Highlighted" column is used to surface items that require analyst attention beyond basic volume metrics, including items that have been explicitly flagged for investigation outcomes.

The icon shown corresponds to a false positive report (C), meaning the message or threat classification is being contested as benign but incorrectly condemned or prioritized as malicious. In Proofpoint workflows, this matters because false positives can disrupt business operations (legitimate suppliers, customer mail, internal systems) and can also hide real threats if analysts become desensitized to noisy alerting. Handling a highlighted false positive typically involves validating message authentication (SPF/DKIM/DMARC), reviewing TAP verdict drivers (URL/attachment detonation, reputation, MLX scoring where applicable), and confirming business legitimacy (known sender relationship, expected content, and user confirmation). When confirmed, analysts submit false positive feedback through the correct channel to improve future detection fidelity and reduce repeat quarantines. Operationally, false positive handling is part of detection hygiene: it improves signal quality, reduces alert fatigue, and ensures that high-confidence threats rise to the top of the triage queue.
